with Sarah Roberts

True leadership and discipleship begin with _____.

We cannot lead others where we are unwilling to _____ ourselves.

As followers of Jesus—coaches, athletes, spouses, and leaders—we are called to lead with _____.

Before we lead, we must learn to _____ Christ.

Jesus is not only our _____; He is the greatest _____ of all time, transforming ordinary people by His _____.

1. CHOOSE to See People (Like Jesus)

Jesus consistently saw people whom others _____:

- _____
- The Samaritan _____
- _____
- His _____

Every person wants to be _____—on teams, in classrooms, and in homes.

As women, we often focus on what's _____ (stats, appearance, performance) and miss what _____ is doing.

Never underestimate the power of saying,
“I _____ you, and I _____ in you—because I believe in the _____ who created you.”

Choosing to see people means seeing them the way _____ does.

2. COMMIT to Serve People (Like Jesus)

Jesus redefined _____.

“The Son of Man did not come to be _____, but to _____.” (Mark 10:45)

While culture chases _____ and _____, Jesus chose to _____.

He served:

- The _____
- The _____
- Even those who would _____ Him

Often the neighbor we are called to serve is the one we _____ want to serve.

This may include:

- _____ who don’t appreciate you
- _____ who frustrate you
- People who may never _____ you
- _____

Commit to serving others the way _____ did.

3. LIVE Fruitfully: The Example of Tabitha (Acts 9:36–42)

Tabitha is the only woman specifically called a _____ in Scripture.

She never _____, but her life _____ loudly.

Her life was marked by:

- Always doing _____ works
- Being full of acts of _____
- Being deeply loved by the _____ she served

She served people society _____—those who could do _____ for her.

She made _____ for widows—garments of _____, _____, and _____.
