Catechism Corner by Kacey Carey, DRE

Advent can be a bridge between the past, present and the future. We look back on the hope of the savior of the universe, experience anew the joy of his arrival and prepare ourselves for his second coming. The first Sunday of Advent is a time of hope as represented by the purple candle of Prophecy. Our new Liturgical year A centers on two themes, that of preparation and of conversion. Rightfully we want to prepare our hearts and minds to celebrate the arrival of the King of Kings. This was foretold at Christ's birth and again at his death. But Jesus is our fulfillment of hope, and his mission of salvation holds out for us the promise that as members of his church, we can aspire to this hope. The call to conversion is another major theme of the first week of Advent. Even the color purple reminds us of our imperfections and need for repentance and renewal. By acknowledging our deficits, we open ourselves to God's grace and allow him to repair our mistakes. Penance is not just for Lent. We want to use Advent as a time to fast, pray and give alms, attempting to partially restore what our sins have taken from us. Advent should be a time to refocus and calm our distractions of the world, disciplining our hearts for the joy of Christmas. Similar to Lent, we tend to savor and enjoy more heartily that which we have given up during the period of fasting. Without a fast beforehand, logically it is anticlimactic to reward ourselves without a period of striving and being deprived of that which we are yearning for. Every end reward is always sweeter when we have abstained from something and then finally can enjoy fully that which we have done without.

"The church year is mankind's greatest work of art; and God has acknowledged it year after year, always granting it new light as though one were encountering it for the first time." Jochen Klepper

Rincón de Catecismo por Kacey Carey, DRE

El Adviento puede ser un puente entre el pasado, el presente y el futuro. Recordamos la esperanza del salvador del universo, experimentamos de nuevo la alegría de su llegada y nos preparamos para su segunda venida. El primer domingo de Adviento es un tiempo de esperanza, representado por la vela morada de la Profecía. Nuestro nuevo Año Litúrgico A se centra en dos temas: la preparación y la conversión. Con razón, queremos preparar nuestros corazones y mentes para celebrar la llegada del Rey de reyes. Esto fue predicho en el nacimiento de Cristo y de nuevo en su muerte. Pero Jesús es el cumplimiento de nuestra esperanza, y su misión de salvación nos ofrece la promesa de que, como miembros de su Iglesia, podemos aspirar a esta esperanza. El llamado a la conversión es otro tema principal de la primera semana de Adviento. Incluso el color morado nos recuerda nuestras imperfecciones y la necesidad de arrepentimiento y renovación. Al reconocer nuestras deficiencias, nos abrimos a la gracia de Dios y le permitimos reparar nuestros errores. La penitencia no es solo para la Cuaresma. Queremos usar el Adviento como un tiempo para ayunar, orar y dar limosna, intentando restaurar parcialmente lo que nuestros pecados nos han arrebatado. El Adviento debería ser un tiempo para reenfocarnos y calmar nuestras distracciones del mundo, disciplinando nuestros corazones para la alegría de la Navidad. Al igual que en la Cuaresma, tendemos a saborear y disfrutar con más intensidad aquello a lo que hemos renunciado durante el ayuno. Sin un ayuno previo, lógicamente resulta decepcionante recompensarnos sin un período de esfuerzo y privación de aquello que anhelamos. Toda recompensa final siempre es más dulce cuando nos hemos abstenido de algo y finalmente podemos disfrutar plenamente de aquello de lo que hemos prescindido.

"El año litúrgico es la mayor obra de arte de la humanidad; y Dios lo ha reconocido año tras año, otorgándole siempre nueva luz como si lo viéramos por primera vez." Jochen
