Pastor's Corner

From the Pastor, August 3, 2025

The readings for today, especially the first reading from Ecclesiastes and the parable told by Jesus in the Gospel, orient us toward our last end, the purpose of our lives. Many of us have a stated or unstated goal of life that we shoot for: to have as pleasant a life as possible and then die a death with as little pain as possible. And therefore, we shoot for comfort and security. But what is the point of living a life like that? Qoheleth, the speaker in the Book of Ecclesiastes (a name which means “preacher”), comes up with this answer: “Vanity of vanities; all is vanity.” To work hard in great toil and acquire a great deal doesn’t matter. As Jesus says in another place, “You cannot love both God and mammon.”

There is a story that is told about St. John Chrysostom, that great patriarch of Constantinople in the 4th century. There was a very rich woman who died and gave all of her money to the Church. And people came to the holy patriarch and asked him what he will do with the money. Will he give it to the poor? Will he build some great church? What will he do? And he said (I am paraphrasing), “If she was not generous enough to give it in her lifetime, I will not accept it. Bury it with her.” The lesson is that what is given for our use in this life should be for a greater purpose, not just a pursuit of comfort and security.

In Christ,
Fr. Komoroski

Del Pastor, 3 Agosto 2025

Las lecturas de hoy, especialmente la primera lectura del libro de Eclesiastés y la parábola contada por Jesús en el Evangelio, nos orientan hacia nuestro fin último, el propósito de nuestras vidas. Muchos de nosotros tenemos una meta declarada o no declarada en la vida: tener una existencia lo más placentera posible y luego morir con el menor dolor posible. Por eso buscamos comodidad y seguridad. Pero, ¿cuál es el sentido de vivir así? Qohelet, el orador en el Libro del Eclesiastés (un nombre que significa “predicador”), llega a esta conclusión: “¡Vanidad de vanidades! Todo es vanidad.” Trabajar arduamente y adquirir muchas cosas no tiene sentido. Como dice Jesús en otro pasaje: “No se puede servir a Dios y al dinero.”

Se cuenta una historia sobre San Juan Crisóstomo, el gran patriarca de Constantinopla en el siglo IV. Una mujer muy rica murió y dejó toda su fortuna a la Iglesia. La gente fue al santo patriarca y le preguntó qué haría con ese dinero. ¿Lo daría a los pobres? ¿Construiría una gran iglesia? ¿Qué haría? Y él respondió (parafraseando): “Si no fue lo suficientemente generosa para darlo en vida, no lo aceptaré. Entiérrenlo con ella.” La lección es que lo que se nos da en esta vida debe usarse para un propósito mayor, no solo para buscar comodidad y seguridad.

En Cristo,
P. Komoroski

The Beacons are Lit

Not Enough Priests To Maintain Previous Schedules

People have for years been talking about a “priest shortage.” In looking into the situation, I have found that we don’t have a priest shortage. We do have fewer priests than we used to, yes, but that isn’t the biggest crisis, which is a laity shortage. We have a lot fewer practicing Catholics now than we used to. The ratio of priests per Catholic is actually quite stable.

I bring this up in the context of our weekend Mass schedule change because, since we have so fewer people than we used to have, we should have a schedule that best serves those people. It doesn’t make logical sense to continue to maintain a schedule which was designed for a different time with more priests and more people. As I hope you see, your priests in Clark County have been working hard to serve you. I am the pastor of five parishes, which is frankly a ridiculous and impossible job. There is no way that we can continue to keep a status quo which is not appropriate for our time and the amount of resources we have.

Therefore, the second main reason for a weekend Mass change is we do not have enough priests assigned to maintain our current schedule. We only have two priests assigned to our Family of Parishes to celebrate Mass in English. We are allowed to schedule only two Masses per day per priest, according to the combination of the Code of Canon Law, particular law of the Archdiocese, and Archdiocesan rules of the Beacons of Light process. We have been adhering to this principle as we formulate the new Mass schedule.

In Christ,
Fr. Komoroski

Las Antorchas están Encendidas

No Hay Suficientes Sacerdotes Para Mantener los Horarios Anteriores

Desde hace años se habla de una “escasez de sacerdotes.” Al investigar más a fondo, he llegado a la conclusión de que no tenemos una escasez de sacerdotes como tal. Sí, tenemos menos sacerdotes que antes, pero la mayor crisis no es esa — es una escasez de laicos practicantes. Ahora hay muchos menos católicos practicantes que antes. La proporción de sacerdotes por católico, de hecho, se ha mantenido bastante estable.

Menciono esto en el contexto del cambio en el horario de las Misas dominicales porque, ya que hay menos personas que antes, debemos tener un horario que sirva mejor a las personas que tenemos actualmente. No tiene sentido lógico mantener un horario diseñado para un tiempo con más sacerdotes y más feligreses. Como espero que hayan notado, los sacerdotes del Condado de Clark han estado trabajando arduamente para servirles. Yo soy el párroco de cinco parroquias, lo cual — francamente — es un trabajo ridículo e imposible. No podemos seguir manteniendo un status quo que ya no corresponde con nuestro momento histórico ni con los recursos que tenemos.

Por tanto, la segunda razón principal para modificar el horario de Misas de fin de semana es que no tenemos suficientes sacerdotes asignados para mantener el horario actual. Solo tenemos dos sacerdotes asignados a nuestra Familia de Parroquias para celebrar Misas en inglés. Y solo se nos permite celebrar dos Misas por día por sacerdote, según lo establece el Código de Derecho Canónico, la ley particular de la Arquidiócesis y las normas del proceso Beacons of Light. Hemos seguido esta directriz al formular el nuevo horario de Misas.

En Cristo,
P. Komoroski
