Wally Alexander opened Wally's Drive-In in May of 1937 at 1600 McCallie Avenue. Now 85 years later, Wally's is still in operation, and although many changes have taken place, you can still expect great food and a friendly atmosphere.

Wally's Drive-In had a curb service and featured the "Best Burger in Chattanooga". Other popular items were homemade chili, milkshakes, and doughnuts. The price of the burger in those days was 25 cents, the breakfast special was 40 cents, and a cup of coffee was a nickel.

Many Chattanoogaans will recall Wally's as a gathering place for the young. Often times we will now hear people comment about their "courting" days at Wally's Drive-In.

In 1975 Tony Kennedy purchased Wally's, keeping the name and the menu the same. However, as fast food chains moved into the area, Mr. Kennedy saw the need to expand the menu to include fresh vegetables. Since this time, Wally's has continued to be known for a great burger, fresh vegetables and for having one of the best breakfast deals in town.

In December 1998, Wally's was destroyed by an electrical fire. At that time Mr. Kennedy made the decision to rebuild and the restaurant reopened in August 1999.

In May of 1988, Mr. Kennedy purchased an existing restaurant in East Ridge, which became the second Wally's location on Ringgold Road. In August of 2000 a new, larger modern building was built offering more seating and four private rooms for banquets and parties.

In June of 2018, Mr. Kennedy passed away leaving the restaurants to Glen and Gary Meadows. Glen and his family own and operate the Ringgold Road location, while Gary and his family own and operate the McCallie Ave. location. Glen and Gary both strive to continue to offer the same great food, service, and a friendly atmosphere that Mr. Kennedy provided to the Chattanooga area since 1975.
