An Excerpt from Swim Schools Australia Flyer:- Learning to Swim

What does learning to swim mean? When Parents ask, "How long will it take my child to learn to swim?" the first question we should ask is: "What does learn to swim mean to you?"

For some families, learning to swim means being comfortable and confident in the water. For others, it means being able to:

- Float and recover independently
- Tread Water
- Swim 25 Metres
- Learn all four competitive strokes
- Participate safely in swimming, surf or other water activities.

Because every family has different goals, there is no single answer or fixed timeline.

Change Rooms Concerns

Parents/Guardians/Carers: - Please Note that Children aged 7 years and under are allowed in changerooms of the opposite gender.

Children 8 years and over should not be in the Changerooms of the opposite gender.

For example, a 10 year old boy should not be in the female change rooms, or a 9 year old girl should not be in the male change rooms.

If your older children require your assistance, please use the disabled toilet to change them, unfortunately there are no shower facilities in the disabled toilet.
