FORMULA FOR IMPACT

We provide youth and teens with environments, relationships and experiences that build essential skills and equip them to achieve positive outcomes.

Dear Friends,

A year at Boys & Girls Clubs of the Corridor is made up of hundreds of connections. Connections between Club members and staff. Between kids and their peers. Between young people and new experiences that can shape their futures.

As we look back on the past year through this annual report, it is those moments of connection that stay with us. The first time a young person tries something new. The friendship that begins with a shared game. The confidence that grows over time. The connection with an adult who believes in them and helps them see what they are capable of.

Those moments may look different for every Club member, but they all have the potential to lead to something bigger.

A field trip can become a first experience. A STEM activity can spark curiosity. A Career Academy Tour can introduce a future possibility. Power Hour can help a young person discover that setting a goal is one thing, but working toward it is another. A basketball court can become a place to build confidence and learn to encourage someone else.

And sometimes, the connection comes full circle.

Like Sam, who first came to the Club as a second grader. Today, he has graduated from Jefferson High School and is a member of our staff, helping younger Club members find the same sense of belonging he found here. His story is a reminder that the relationships we build with young people can stay with them long after they leave the Club.

Our community makes those connections possible. From the organizations that welcome our members into their spaces to the businesses, volunteers, families and supporters who invest in our work, each one helps expand what is possible for a young person.

Sometimes, one moment of connection is all it takes to help a young person see what comes next.

Thank you for being part of that connection.

With gratitude,

John C. Tursi

At a Glance

For 33 years, Boys & Girls Clubs of the Corridor has provided safe, welcoming places where kids and teens can thrive. With caring mentors, enriching experiences, and transformative opportunities, Clubs help young people build healthy, productive futures for themselves and our community.

The Corridor Needs Club Kids. And Club Kids Need You.

Club kids are more likely to be:

- Determined Scholars - 88% of Club teens expect to graduate high school
- Future Professionals - 73% of Club members shared that STEM activities at the Club make them want to learn about jobs in science, technology, engineering, or math.
- Strong Leaders - 76% of Club members use positive strategies to resolve conflicts without fighting (or violence).
- Emotionally & Physically Healthy - 94% of Club members can talk to an adult at the Club about their problems.

Scale & Reach

Boys & Girls Clubs of the Corridor serves more than 800 young people annually. We serve more than 700 youth through membership and an additional 100 through community outreach in 3 communities, including:

89	264	424	777
Marion youth & teen members	Iowa City youth & teen members	Cedar Rapids youth & teen members	Total youth & teen members

Opening Doors to Future Careers

Preparing young people for the workforce goes beyond resumes and interview skills. It also means connecting them with professionals and introducing them to career paths they may not have considered.

Our Workforce Readiness programming helps middle and high school members explore careers and build skills for the future. With continued support from Taco Bell and a dedicated Director of Workforce Readiness, we're expanding opportunities for young people across the Corridor. Last year, approximately 30 young people, primarily from our Cedar Rapids Clubs, participated.

Building Skills and Exploring Careers

Through Career Launch, members explore their interests and strengths while learning practical skills for getting and keeping a job, including searching for opportunities, completing applications and interviewing. Career Academy takes learning beyond the Club, connecting members with local businesses and professionals who share their career journeys and give young people a firsthand look at different industries. One of the teens' favorite experiences from this year, was a visit to ITC Midwest. Members heard from employees about their careers, how they got started and what their jobs involve. They also learned about ITC's role in maintaining the electrical transmission structures and power lines they see throughout the community.

The visit ended with a hands on STEM activity connected to ITC's electrical transmission lines. The experience made a definite impression: two weeks later, the teens were still talking about how much they enjoyed the field trip.

ITC Midwest President Dusky Terry sees these visits as an opportunity to connect local students with future career possibilities and help them see the opportunities available close to home.

"We are always looking for talented people to join our team at ITC Midwest. Hosting local students in our Cedar Rapids headquarters helps expose them to the opportunities that exist in their own backyard, reinforce the importance of getting that high school diploma, and begin thinking about what they want to do after graduation."
Dusky Terry, ITC Midwest President

Expanding Opportunities

Workforce Readiness is entering a new chapter with Taryn Kurth as director. Taryn coordinates business tours and leads activities that help members explore careers and develop skills for the workforce.

A key goal is to expand Workforce Readiness programming in Marion and Iowa City as more members reach middle school age. Developing opportunities at these sites will help more young people explore their interests, build workforce skills and begin thinking about future careers.

"As more of our younger members grow into their teen years, I'm excited to expand Workforce Readiness programming in Marion and Iowa City so young people across the Corridor can explore their interests, discover their strengths and consider possible future careers before graduating high school."
Taryn Kurth, Director of Workforce Readiness.

From Club Kid to Role Model

When Sam walked into the Club for the first time as a second grader, he was a quiet kid trying to find his place.

Today, he is a Jefferson High School graduate and a member of our Club staff. Standing where he once came to learn, play and make friends, Sam sees how far he has come.

Sam's family moved to the United States from Tanzania in 2011, when he was three. Learning English, fitting in and navigating the path toward citizenship brought challenges for Sam and his family. The Club became a place where he could feel comfortable being himself.

He made friends, went on field trips and tried new things. One memorable experience was a Club trip to Buffalo Wild Wings, where Sam tried the Blazin' sauce. His mouth was on fire for hours, teaching him not to mess with hot wings!

Those experiences helped Sam practice his English, build friendships and gain confidence. Just as important, he had adults he could count on, such as longtime Club staff member, James Nash, he could turn to for advice about school, family or life.

Years later, Sam has become that person younger Club members can turn to.

"I knew I had to step up."

One of those young people is Tyler. When he first came to the Club, Tyler was shy and hesitant to connect with others. Sam recognized something familiar. "I was kind of like that when I started," Sam says, "so I made a point of spending time with Tyler, helping him feel comfortable opening up and making friends. By the end of summer, Tyler was more confident and connected. He even became Sam's "partner in crime" when it came to Club pranks. "He had a lot of good ideas," Sam says with a laugh. But seeing Tyler's confidence grow was the real highlight of that summer for Sam.

More Than a Place to Go

James has watched Sam grow from a quiet second grader into a young man who now serves as a role model for others. "Watching Sam grow from a 2nd grader into the young man he is today has been one of the greatest privileges, and I couldn't be prouder of him for coming out of his shell, trying new things, and becoming a role model for kids who look like him," James says. "He is far too humble to understand the impact he has already made and the lives he will continue to touch."

Now, Sam is passing that support forward, encouraging young people who may face challenges similar to his own and showing them that where they start does not determine where they can go. The kid who once needed someone to help him find his place is now helping another kid find his.

"You didn't just help me grow. You helped me become someone who can now help others grow, too."

Basketball is Just the Beginning

When we built the Busse Unit, one of our goals was to create more opportunities to serve young people throughout the community. With a gymnasium of our own, we can offer sports programs that welcome kids beyond our existing Club membership. Last year we ran a basketball program, Jr. NBA/WNBA Mini Hoopers, which gave us a glimpse of what's possible. Through this basketball program, we brought together approximately 80 kids from the Cedar Rapids and Marion communities, including about 70 who were not registered Club members.

The program started with kindergarten and first grade, then grew to include second and third graders and fourth and fifth graders. This year, we plan to add sixth graders, giving the program room to grow as more young people learn about our program and become interested in playing. Participants came with different levels of experience, and each had the chance to learn basketball fundamentals, develop skills and improve throughout the season. Some started out struggling to dribble or shoot. By the end, they were bringing the ball up the court and scoring baskets. Every player showed improvement from the first workout to the last.

Coach Jaree Crawford, who played basketball through high school, college and professionally overseas, enjoyed seeing that progress firsthand. “Seeing the kids truly happy about getting better is always something I enjoy,” he said. The connections mattered, too. For Jaree, one of the best parts was hearing kids who weren't Club members call out, “You’re my coach.”

The program also gave kids a chance to experience more of the game. A visit to Shoot 360 introduced them to basketball training technology, while a family night at the Club brought players and families together to compete in basketball games using the LU system.

While cost can be a barrier to sports participation, we want every child to have the opportunity to play, regardless of their family's ability to pay. Programs like Mini Hoopers help make that possible while giving kids a chance to build skills, gain confidence and connect with others..

Basketball is just one way the Busse unit is helping us expand our reach. Mini Hoopers is an example of how sports can bring kids together, introduce families to Boys & Girls Clubs of the Corridor and create connections beyond the basketball court. As we build on our first year, we hope to reach more young people through a variety of sports programs and other community activities at the Busse Unit. The Chris & Suzy DeWolf Family Gymnasium is helping us do what we set out to do when we built Busse: open our doors to more kids throughout the community.
