The Inner Garden of Blindness

In this collection, the beauty of a world beyond vision is explored. "The Inner Garden of Blindness" invites you to enter a sensory landscape where vision gives way to imagination. This exhibition is a journey into the concept of blindness — not as a limitation, but as a transformative condition that reveals a different form of perception. Each piece reflects invisible and impossible landscapes, shaped by senses beyond vision. It is a place where beauty is felt, not seen. It is a garden without boundaries, limitless in its ability to evoke emotion through sensory connections. The exhibition invites all visitors to pause and reflect: In a world where vision fades, how can we still experience the profound beauty that surrounds us? What forms, fragrances, and sounds would make up our own intimate gardens of the mind?
