Bring Relief to Those Impacted By Cancer on Sock Out Cancer Day

June 3, 2022 (PHOENIX) — On Sunday, June 5, the Arizona Medical Association (ArMA) will amplify the pivotal work of Sock Out Cancer, LLC, a non-profit that aids financially distressed cancer patients and their families. Founded by Security Mutual Life Foundation, Sock Out Cancer provides individuals impacted by cancer with non-medical necessities such as food, transportation, and housing; this assistance removes a tremendous burden for patients, allowing them to focus their energy on fighting cancer.

While the non-profit raises awareness and accepts donations year-round, Sunday, June 5, marks a notable observance: National Cancer Survivors Day. In recognition of this observance and those impacted by cancer, ArMA will join organizations across the nation in promoting Sock Out Cancer Day. On this date, we encourage members of our community to support Sock Out Cancer's mission in any way they can, whether it be through donating, purchasing socks, volunteering, or helping spread the word. By taking these simple actions, our community can make a world of difference in the lives of so many people.

"There are so many people within our community who are impacted by cancer," expressed ArMA's President, Jennifer Hartmark-Hill, MD. "They are our friends, neighbors, coworkers, and loved ones. As physicians, they are also our patients, and we are dedicated to improving their health and well-being. Unfortunately, there are burdens they are faced with that we cannot treat in hospitals or clinics, such as financial obstacles. That's why Sock Out Cancer's mission is crucial; through the generosity of our community, we can all do something meaningful to help alleviate patients' and loved ones' stress and anxiety."

Individuals can participate in Sock Out Cancer Day by making a donation on the organization's website. Every dollar donated is used to aid patients and their families with non-medical expenses, including mortgage, rent, utilities, groceries, gas cards, school supplies, and other living expenses. In addition to making a monetary contribution, individuals can purchase a pair of Sock Out Cancer Socks, which are multi-hued to symbolize the fight against cancer in all its forms.
