ONE STEP AT A TIME

Hi! I'm Gregory

In any high-stakes moment - whether you're leading a team through change or stepping onto a world stage - success comes down to one question:

Are you ready to perform when it matters most?

By 26, I was the first Irish violinist to give a full solo debut at Carnegie Hall. But what defined my career wasn't the big stages - it was the invisible work: mastering fundamentals, refining what others overlook, and delivering under pressure again and again and again.

Over two decades performing for presidents and sold-out audiences taught me that mastery is never an accident. It's deliberate practice, precise preparation, and the mindset to show up fully when the spotlight is brightest.

Today, I help leaders and teams do the same. Through my One Step Closer™ framework, I teach organizations to build a culture where fundamentals drive innovation, small improvements create lasting advantage, and every person feels equipped to rise to the moment.

Because whether you're holding a bow or presenting in the boardroom, true impact comes from tuning in, stepping up, and striking the right note exactly when it counts.

HE IS TRULY INSPIRATIONAL.

His performances not only command the audience's attention but impart relevant insights that seamlessly integrate with the essence of his music."

The Rhythm of Leadership and Lasting Change

Most high-achievers get stuck at good because they chase complexity and overlook the fundamentals.

I solve the gap between competence and mastery - showing individuals and organizations how to achieve world-class excellence by mastering the basics and applying the 2% refinements that elevate performance beyond the ordinary and gain a competitive edge.

- Sales, marketing, and innovation teams ready to turn small, intentional refinements into transformational results.
- Leadership retreats and offsites where inspiration and emotional resonance matter as much as actionable strategy.

The Audience will leave with:

- A high-performance mindset-modeled after elite musicians - where consistency and excellence are the standard.
- A blueprint for breakthrough results by mastering the small 2% shifts that drive exponential growth.
- Tools for calm, confident leadership under pressure - so teams perform at their best when it matters most.
- A renewed connection to purpose and performance - where every action inspires and elevates others.
