Readings

St. Augustine Hymnal: 938

Quote of the Week

We must speak to God as a friend speaks to his friend, servant speaks to his master; now asking some favor, now acknowledging our faults and communicating to him all our concerns in us, our thoughts, our fears, our projects, our desires and in all things, seeking his counsel.

~St. Ignatius Loyola

27th Sunday in Ordinary Time

"Jesus said to them, 'Did you never read in the Scriptures: The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone; by the Lord has this been done, and it is wonderful in our eyes? Therefore, I say to you, the kingdom of God will be taken away from you and given to a people that will produce its fruit.'" (Mt 21: 42-43)

THE BATTLE OF PRAYER

“The habitual difficulty in prayer is distraction. It can affect words and their meaning in vocal prayer; it can concern, more profoundly, him to whom we are praying, in vocal prayer (liturgical or personal), meditation, and contemplative prayer. To set about hunting down distractions would be to fall into their trap, when all that is necessary is to turn back to our heart: for a distraction reveals to us what we are attached to, and this humble awareness before the Lord should awaken our preferential love for him and lead us resolutely to offer him our heart to be purified. Therein lies the battle, the choice of which master to serve.” —CCC, no. 2729

Prayer requires time, attention, and effort. We need to discipline ourselves for what spiritual writers call “spiritual combat.” They cite problems such as acedia (a form of sloth or laziness) that arises from a lax ascetical behavior, a laxity that needs to be corrected. The Tempter will try to pull us away from prayer. Distraction and dryness will discourage us.

The remedy is faith, fidelity to times for prayer, constant conversion of heart, and watchfulness. The Catechism’s section “The Battle of Prayer” (CCC, nos. 2725-2745) answers many questions that beginners are likely to ask. Its advice is practical and experiential. For example, the section addresses the issue of distraction, a major obstacle for most beginners. Distractions interfere with all forms of prayer. The temptation to fight them entraps one; all that is needed is to turn back to the presence of the Lord in our hearts. A distraction reveals our attachments, but a humble awareness of this can move us to offer Christ our hearts for the needed purification.

After doing the short reading, take time to reflect on these questions.

Why do you pray? When do you pray? How do you pray?

If you practice some form of meditation regularly, how would you describe it? What means have you taken to persevere in meditation?

What are you doing to deepen your prayer life? What are you learning from spiritual reading to help you with your prayer?
