First Sunday of Advent

"Watch, therefore; you do not know when the Lord of the house is coming, whether in the evening, or at midnight, or at cockcrow, or in the morning. May he not come suddenly and find you sleeping. What I say to you, I say to all: 'Watch!'" (Mk 13: 35-37)

Saint Francis Xavier

1506 - 1552
FEAST DAY — DECEMBER 3

Known as the Apostle to the Indies and to Japan, Francis was born in Spanish Navarre, the young-est in a large family. He studied at the University of Paris, where he met St. Ignatius of Loyola, and was among the first seven Jesuits who vowed to be spiritual soldiers for Christ. They were ordained as a group in 1537. For 11 years, from 1541 until his untimely death after only two weeks on the Chinese coast, Francis evan-gelized in the East Indies, Mozambique, India, Malaysia, Sri Lanka, Indonesia and Japan. A missionary prone to seasickness who had trouble learning foreign languages, Francis is the patron saint of missionaries, Borneo, the East Indies, India, Pakistan, Japan and Outer Mongolia.

The Prophecy of Bishop O'Gorman

Bishop Thomas O'Gorman 1843 - 1921

That is a slightly overdramatic title, but I will explain. On January 23, 1903, Bishop O'Gorman gave an address to the 3rd Annual South Dakota State Historical Society meeting in Pierre, SD. At that time there were still discussions/debates about where the state capital of SD should be located. His address was about the history of the earliest European explorers of South Dakota, but with a special focus on the famous Verendrye Expedition named after two French brothers trying to find a route to the Pacific Ocean in 1742-43. Recounting their journey he says:

"Somewhere between Fort Bennett and Fort Pierre was that camp of Little Cherry Indians [whom earlier, he surmised, generally lived along Cherry Creek] where the Verendrye expeditions rested awhile. Some day or other the exact spot may be found, for in the account I read: 'On an eminence, near the fort (camp), I placed a leaden plate engraved with the arms and inscription of the king [of France] and some stones in the shape of a pyramid in honor of the general.' What a find that would be for Mr. Robinson [the Secretary of the Historical Society] and the Historical Society! A good reward should be promised to the finder. I do not know if historical sentiment and feeling accounts for anything as an argument in favor of Pierre as the capital. But surely the most historical spot in the state is right here, or somewhere in this neighborhood. I am inclined to think that if that leaden plate were unearthed before November, 1904, my historical bent would compel me to vote for Pierre."

As it turns out, Pierre was selected as the state capital without the finding of that leaden plate. But that plate was found ten years later, in 1913, by a group of children at play. As many of you know, you can go see the monument at the site in Ft. Pierre (near the Casey Tibbs Museum); it's well worth a visit! It should be noted that the great historian and secretary – The "Mr. Robinson" mentioned by the Bishop – was aware of the Verendrye plate's existence, but Bishop O'Gorman's intuition as to its precise location is quite remarkable. Fort Bennett was approximately 35-40 miles from Fort Pierre and it could have been anywhere in between. Thankfully, when the Verendrye Plate turned up, Mr. Doan Robinson was still around to recognize its significance.
