Your pet will undoubtedly be excited and happy to see you when you pick him or her up. Following a few simple steps will help ease the transition back to home life.

Over excitement may make a pet pant a lot and act thirsty. They are probably not really thirsty, and have had access to fresh water at all times while at the boarding facility. Give them a few ice cubes or a very small amount of water to tide them over until they settle down.

Do not feed your pet for a couple hours after coming home from the kennel, then only provide the same kind of food you usually feed. Limit the food and water you give them until they have settled back into home life. Please be aware that in a happy, excited state, excessive food and/or water consumption may lead to digestive upsets.

Walk your dog after checking out of the pet boarding facility or allow access to a yard area. The exhilaration of being re-united may also cause signs of mild intestinal disturbances and/or change in habits.

Give your pet individual attention. Some quiet playtime or sitting and petting or brushing will help them get through the excitement stage and calm down.

Kennel life can be very stimulating to all of your pet's senses. Some dogs charge around jumping and barking at other dogs and having a wonderful time. Most pets leave the kennel exhausted but happy, and sleep a lot the first couple days they are home.

Re-establish your typical patterns at home by following your normal schedule. Pets love following a schedule; it makes them feel safe and secure.

Welcome home and we hope to see you all again!
