

Associate Artist - Peter Driver

Peter Driver (b. 1962, Littleport, UK) is a multidisciplinary artist. He addresses his concerns for people and planet through a process of social actions grounded in the analogue and the hand-made. Whether presenting his psychogeographic experiences of durational walks and contested sites, negotiating the ambiguities of text and interpretation, or exploring the personal poetic territory of his paintings, he confronts viewers with work that can be both a material assertion and a tentative search for understanding.

His abstract paintings are drawn from lived experience. Often commemorating his late daughter's excitement about colour, they begin with found traces and uncontrolled gestures onto which he imposes passages of order and decision-making to create a rich, seductive and complex surface, reflecting emotional intensity.
