OUR MISSION STATEMENT

To honor the Lord as Servants of Christ and Stewards of the mysteries of God by spreading his message of Love, Hope, Faith and Respect. In trusting his message, our diverse community will always remain united and be guided by the Holy Spirit, to encourage and support the development of the Sacramental Life and by being a community open to others that are coming in search of Christ's love and teachings.

GOSPEL REFLECTION

Today's Gospel brings us to the heart of Jesus' teaching: the Beatitudes. If we want to know what kind of Messiah Jesus is, what kind of Kingdom He proclaims, and what kind of disciples He desires, we need look no further than this passage from the Sermon on the Mount.

Saint Matthew tells us that Jesus goes up the mountain, sits down, and teaches. This is not accidental. Like Moses on Mount Sinai, Jesus speaks with divine authority. But unlike Moses, who brought commandments written on stone, Jesus speaks words meant to be written on the human heart. What He offers is not simply a new law, but a new way of being human.

At first hearing, the Beatitudes sound strange, even contradictory. Jesus calls blessed those whom the world usually calls unfortunate: the poor, the mourning, the meek, the persecuted. The world tells us, "Blessed are the rich, the powerful, the admired, the comfortable." Jesus turns that logic upside down. Because Jesus sees reality not as the world sees it, but as God sees it.

1. "Blessed are the poor in spirit"

To be poor in spirit is not simply to lack money; it is to recognize our dependence on God. It is the humility to say, "Lord, I need You." The poor in spirit know they cannot save themselves. They do not rely on wealth, status, or achievements. They rely on God.

2. "Blessed are those who mourn"

Mourning does not feel like a blessing. But Jesus is not glorifying suffering for its own sake. Those who mourn are not indifferent. They love deeply. They care. And because they care, they suffer. Jesus promises that such people will be comforted not with empty words, but with God's own presence.

3. "Blessed are the meek"

Meekness is often misunderstood as weakness. In fact, meekness is strength under control. It is the strength to resist violence, revenge, and pride. It is the courage to trust God rather than force our own way.

4. "Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness"

This is a powerful image. Hunger and thirst are not casual desires; they are urgent needs. Jesus calls us to desire holiness, justice, and God's will with the same intensity we desire food and water.

5. "Blessed are the merciful"

Mercy is at the center of the Gospel. To be merciful is to forgive, to show compassion, to refuse to harden our hearts.

6. "Blessed are the clean of heart"

Purity of heart means integrity, a heart undivided, focused on God. It is not just about external behavior but about inner intention.

7. "Blessed are the peacemakers"

Peace is not merely the absence of conflict. It is the presence of justice, reconciliation, and truth. Peacemakers are those willing to step into conflict to heal it, to listen, to forgive, to build bridges rather than walls.

8. "Blessed are those who are persecuted"

When we stand for truth, justice, and love, we may be misunderstood, ridiculed, or rejected.

But Jesus says, "Rejoice and be glad." Not because suffering is good, but because it unites us with Him. The cross is not the end; resurrection is.

The Beatitudes are not a checklist to complete or ideals for a few heroic saints. They are a portrait of Jesus Himself. He is the poor one, the meek one, the merciful one, the peacemaker, the persecuted one. And today, He invites us not simply to admire the Beatitudes, but to live them. They will not make us successful by the world's standards. But they will make us holy. And in the end, that is the only success that truly matters.
