OIL SAMPLING AND ANALYSIS

The Kobelco Oil Sampling and Analysis Service gives Kobelco owners and operators an early warning detection, diagnosis and evaluation of engine and major hydraulic components.

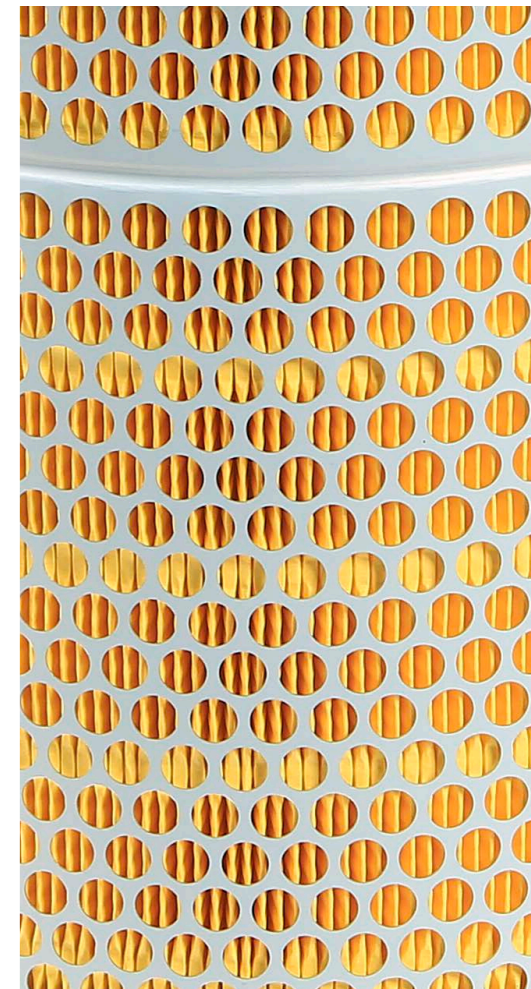

Scheduled testing of the lubricants, which are designed to protect your machine components, is a crucial step to ensure the mechanical health of your equipment.

The test results provide important information about the health of your equipment, the integrity of the lubricants and indicate whether or not the machine is operating within recommended specifications.

Analysing data trends over time is an effective way to monitor equipment condition and system health, allowing Kobelco technicians to detect potential problems and take corrective action before a component failure causes costly machine downtime.

KEY BENEFITS INCLUDE

- Detecting lubricant contamination
- Early warning of worn engine and hydraulic components
- Allows the planned and scheduled change out of major engine and hydraulic components
- Improves profitability by detecting potential issues before they cause costly downtime
- Provides proof of oil replacement at each service interval, leading to increased used equipment value
