

Camden Claim Women's Sunday Handicap Pennant

Camden Golf Club secured the 2025 Women's Sunday Handicap Pennant, overcoming Northbridge Golf Club 4.5–1.5 in a hard-fought final at Oak Point Golf Club. The victory marks a milestone for Camden, who progressed to the championship match after edging out Massey Park in a nail-biting semi-final. Their opponents, Northbridge, earned their spot in the decider with a sudden-death playoff triumph over defending champions Lakeside Camden.

In the final, Camden made their intentions clear early. After nine holes, the side held commanding leads in three matches, with Kendell Hunt (3 up), Rebecca Wright (4 up) and Pam Dilucchio (5 up) all in control. The remaining contests were much tighter, and while Northbridge mounted a spirited fightback on the back nine, Camden held firm to seal the title.

The final margin was underpinned by strong individual performances, with Hunt defeating Claire Mallinson 5&4, Wright prevailing 3&2 against Bev Lewis, and Dilucchio securing a 4&3 win over Linda Mills. Maria Thorn added another point with a 2&1 victory over Helen Harlow, while Libby Newcombe halved her match with Shannon Bernasconi, who capped off her season as the competition's only undefeated player.

Both teams praised Golf NSW for the success of the initiative, which is quickly establishing itself as a highlight of the women's calendar. Following a successful debut in 2024, this year's competition expanded to 11 teams, a clear sign of growing enthusiasm. Oak Point Golf Club was also recognised for its role as host venue, with players commending the course's presentation and the welcoming atmosphere.

Final Results – Women's Sunday HCP Pennant 2025

- Kendell Hunt def. Claire Mallinson 5&4
- Libby Newcombe & Shannon Bernasconi tied
- Rebecca Wright def. Bev Lewis 3&2
- Bernadette Johnston lost to Jo Phillips 4&3
- Maria Thorn def. Helen Harlow 2&1
- Pam Dilucchio def. Linda Mills 4&3

Undefeated Player 2025: Shannon Bernasconi (Northbridge)

Article Courtesy of Golf NSW
Kassidy Rogan