Our Commitment

We know that today's consumer has many choices and a variety of ways to obtain information. Transparency is very important to us. We are committed to providing clear and concise information, whether online, over the phone, or in person.

We recognize that understanding available options as well as cost is important for every family. Our price lists are itemized, the selection of items is in direct relation to the service requested. It is recommended that you choose only those items you desire and that will be of most value to you and your family and provide the most support in your time of need.

We believe that it is important you have the opportunity to know exactly what you are getting and the ability to compare prices, services and merchandise. When considering your choices, it is helpful to think about costs in relation to what you receive.

When comparing your options, we encourage you to have a no-commitment conversation with one of our professional funeral arrangers. Doing so affords you the opportunity to ask questions and gather information, ensuring you fully understand your options and are confident in your final selections.

Funeral and cemetery services may be very simple, or more complicated depending on the wishes of the family. We are committed and experienced in doing everything we can to ensure that your memorial service or life celebration is relevant, planned and executed perfectly. It is our promise to every family and our community to provide accurate information regarding funeral and cemetery services, and to exceed your expectations while faithfully fulfilling your wishes.

Sincerely,

Daniels Family Funerals & Cremation

Cremation Arrangement Guide

Honor the Life

Taking the time to honor the life of your loved one is vitally important to the grieving process. A gathering or funeral service allows all who have been impacted by death to honor, remember and support one another.

- A funeral ceremony or gathering can be a formal or informal event.
- A funeral ceremony helps survivors begin to accept their loss and establishes a foundation for a healthy healing process.
- A funeral ceremony should reflect your loved ones wishes and any personal, religious or cultural traditions.
- Your loved one can be present for the event or it can be in their memory though the use of pictures, memorabilia, or other meaningful items.

Forever Resting Place

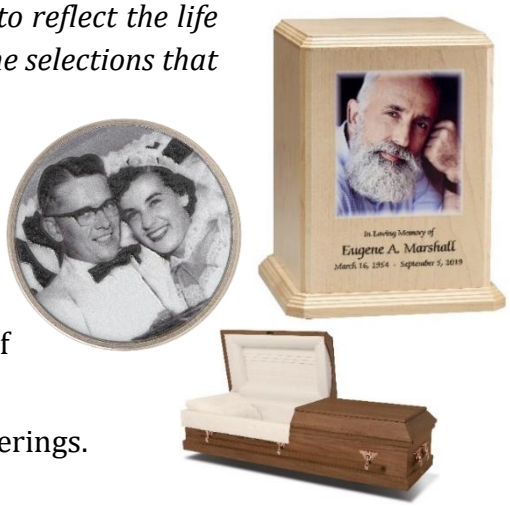

You need a place to live and a place to grieve. The forever resting place gives you a place to visit to honor, to grieve and remember.

- We offer many options for you to have a beautiful, secure and permanent place to memorialize and honor the life.
- While it is understandable to want to take a loved one home, it can be impractical as future generations are often not as connected to the person who has died.
- We encourage you to think about your long-term plans for having a place to recognize a life lived.
- We would be honored to provide you with a complimentary, no obligation, tour of all available options in our cemeteries.

Merchandise Options

There are many ways to honor a life and personalize your experience to reflect the life that was lived. We will explain your options and allow you to control the selections that are made.

- You will be selecting a container for the cremation process. There are many to choose from constructed from various materials and interiors.
- An Urn will be selected to serve as the receptacle for the cremated remains. These are available in a wide variety of materials with customization often available.
- Keep your loved one close with one of our Memorial Keepsake offerings.
