

Morticia's Secret™

Jessica Alameda
Burroughs
4th Generation
Funeral Director-
FDR2757
Embalmer-
EMB9133

Morticia's Secret Going out with a BANG

A company in Alabama is putting cremated remains into ammunition shells. They use a hollow-point bullet, the ashes are added & then it is loaded like any other bullet.

"Wouldn't it be cool to put some ash in a shell, to the point of a 250-round case of shells, and all his friends could go out and have a day on the range and celebrate the way this guy used to be?" says Clem Parnell, co-owner of Holy Smoke the company providing this unique service.

A widow fires off a round containing her husband's ashes...she says "she loves being able to see the ashes as they fall back to earth. It's beautiful that you can see it dispersing and falling,.." She even used the ammo to kill a wild pig that her family ate on 4th of July & can't imagine any other way to honor her husband's life than firing a bullet so he goes out with a BANG.

Alameda Family

FUNERAL & CREMATION

12341 Saratoga-Sunnyvale Rd

Saratoga, CA 95070

408-257-6262

www.funeralcremation.com

FD1215

