

Gastroenterologist | High-Volume Practice | Shared Call | Physician-Led | Central Illinois

Updated 9/23/26

$480,000 – $550,000 yearly

2200 Jacobssen Drive Suite B, Illinois, Illinois, 61761, United States

Physician

Gastroenterology

Job at a glance

Degree Required MD/DO

Position Type Full-Time

Work Environment Ambulatory Surgery Center (ASC) Clinic/Private Practice

Visa Sponsorship No

Experience Level 1 year

Job description

Build the GI practice you want—without sacrificing your quality of life.

Premier Medical Group/Gastrointestinal Institute is seeking a Board-Certified or Board-Eligible Gastroenterologist to join our thriving physician-led practice in Normal, Illinois. Enjoy a high-volume referral base, excellent procedural opportunities, shared call, and the autonomy to practice medicine your way while living in one of Central Illinois' most family-friendly communities.

Why Physicians Choose Premier Medical Group

- ✓ Physician-led practice with collaborative leadership
- ✓ Established referral network and immediate patient volume
- ✓ High procedural volume with dedicated endoscopy time
- ✓ Shared call with excellent work-life balance
- ✓ Efficient clinic workflows and experienced clinical support
- ✓ Practice autonomy without unnecessary administrative burden
- ✓ Opportunity to develop subspecialty interests
- ✓ Long-term career stability with a respected regional practice

Live Where You Can Truly Enjoy Your Time Off

Normal offers the best of both worlds—a welcoming Midwestern community with excellent schools, affordable housing, short commutes, and a vibrant downtown filled with restaurants, breweries, boutiques, and local events.

Outside of work you'll enjoy:

- Miles of biking and hiking trails
- Boating, fishing, and water sports on a 4,900-acre lake
- Big Ten athletics at Illinois State University
- Family-friendly neighborhoods

Weekend trips to Chicago, St. Louis, or Indianapolis—all within 2.5 hours

Compensation & Benefits

Competitive base salary with productivity incentives, comprehensive benefits, relocation assistance, CME allowance, malpractice coverage, retirement plan, and generous paid time off.

If you're looking for a collegial practice where you'll have the autonomy to provide exceptional patient care, strong procedural volume, and the ability to enjoy life outside of medicine, we'd love to connect with you.

Whether you're an experienced gastroenterologist or completing fellowship, you'll find the resources, support, and community to build a long-term career at Premier Medical Group.

Job Responsibilities

The Gastroenterologist will provide comprehensive, high-quality care to patients with gastrointestinal and liver disorders in both outpatient and procedural settings.

Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Evaluate and treat a broad spectrum of gastrointestinal and liver disorders
- Perform screening and therapeutic colonoscopy and upper endoscopy
- Collaborate with APPs and multidisciplinary care teams
- Participate in shared call
- Deliver evidence-based, patient-centered care
- Contribute to quality improvement and practice growth

Practice Highlights

One GI physician

One APP

Dedicated endoscopy suites

Hospital affiliation

ERCP/EUS available

Block procedure time

EMR platform- Modernizing Medicine Software (ModMed- gGastro)

65 case- weekly procedure volume

Clinic vs procedure split- options

Qualifications

Physician Licensed to practice medicine in current state.

Licensed by the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration and the State of Illinois to prescribe narcotics, if applicable.

Board certified or board eligible in the appropriate specialty(ies). Obtain and maintain medical staff membership and appropriate privileges.

Must be eligible as a provider for Medicare, Medicaid, and other federal health programs.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Demonstrates the knowledge and skills necessary to provide patient care aligned to the preferences, goals, and needs of the patients served

Working Hours

We believe great physicians deserve time outside of medicine.

Shared call rotation

No excessive overnight burden

Predictable scheduling

Supportive partners who value work-life balance

Skills

The ideal candidate will demonstrate a combination of strong clinical expertise, sound judgment, and a collaborative approach to patient care. Preferred skills and attributes include:

Broad clinical competence in general gastroenterology with the ability to manage complex and chronic GI conditions

Strong procedural skills in upper endoscopy and colonoscopy, including therapeutic interventions

Commitment to evidence-based medicine and high-quality, patient-centered care

Excellent diagnostic reasoning and clinical decision-making abilities

Efficient time management and organizational skills in both clinic and procedural settings

Ability to work effectively within a multidisciplinary care team, including physicians, advanced practice providers, nursing, anesthesia, and administrative staff

Clear, professional communication skills with patients, families, and referring providers

Comfort with high patient volumes while maintaining quality and attention to detail

Proficiency with electronic health records and clinical documentation standards

Adaptability and willingness to engage in practice growth, workflow optimization, and quality improvement initiatives

Professional demeanor with a strong sense of accountability and integrity

Interest in long-term practice stability and building lasting patient relationships within the community

Subspecialty training or interest (e.g., hepatology, IBD, motility, advanced endoscopy) welcomed but not required