Telepsychology

Telepsychology

- What is it?
- Is it a new concept or just another mechanism to provide psychological services?
- Do you need specialized training to provide electronic services?
- Do you need to develop a separate ethics code for the telepsychology practice?
- What does being competent to provide telepsychology services mean?
- How do you deal with different laws in different jurisdictions?
- Does your patient want it?

Definition: Telehealth

National Telehealth
Resource
Centers (NTRCs)

Collection of means or methods for enhancing health care, public health, and health education delivery and support using telecommunications technologies.

The American
Telemedicine
Association
(ATA)

Uses the term telehealth interchangeably with telemedicine which it defines as the use of medical information exchanged from one site to another via electronic communications to improve a patient's clinical health status.

The Center for Medicare &
Medicaid
Services (CMS)

Certain services like office visits and consultations that are provided using an interactive 2-way telecommunications system (with real-time audio and video) by a doctor or certain other health care provider who isn't at your location.

HHS – Health
Resources and Services Administration
(HRSA)

Use of electronic information and telecommunications technologies to support long-distance clinical health care, patient and professional health-related education, public health and health administration.

Per PSYPACT Rule 2 II

“Telepsychology” means:
the provision of psychological services
using telecommunications technologies.

New APA Guidelines for the Practice of Telepsychology

- Original Guidelines completed in 2013
- Revised and Updated Guidelines in February 2025
- The New Guidelines include:
 - Revisions
 - Condensing of sections
 - Expansion: 18 areas that were not included in the 2013 version

APA Guidelines: Ethical, Legal and Administrative

- Each guideline offers overview statement, rational, and application
- Guideline 2: Informed Consent
- Guideline 3: Data Security, Management and Transmission
- Guideline 4: Data Disposal
- Guideline 6: Interjurisdictional Practice
- Guideline 7: Clinical Best Practices
- Guideline 8: Testing and Assessment

Four New Principles

- Guideline 5: Documentation – includes ongoing assessment of the appropriateness of telepsychology; contact info for local safety/support
- Guideline 9: Emergencies – Copy of emergency plan
- Guideline 10: Supervision and Training – Training in telehealth and telesupervision
- Guideline 11 : Emerging Technologies – acknowledges that the technology landscape is consistently changing

Guideline 6: Interjurisdictional Practice

- Psychologists seek to be well-versed in and comply with all relevant laws, mandates, and regulations when providing telepsychology services to patients/clients/service recipients across jurisdictional borders, both domestic and international.
- Practice via:
 - Licenses in both jurisdictions
 - Interstate Compact (PSYPACT)
 - Temporary Licensure Provisions
- Since laws and regulations that govern service delivery by psychologists vary by jurisdiction, need to be aware of what governs your practice.

Why Telepsychology/Why PSYPACT

- Licensing boards want licensees to be licensed in their state, where the patient and psychologist are located, to protect the public.
 - Psychologists want to be able to provide better access to care to clients/patients through the use of telecommunications technologies.
 - It is challenging to require a psychologist to be licensed in each state due to cost, etc.
 - It is equally unrealistic for regulatory bodies to allow psychologists to practice in their state without some type of oversight.
 - The mental health needs of our society continues to grow.

What is PSYPACT?

- Psychology Interjurisdictional Compact
- Interstate Compact
- Designed to regulate telepsychology & temporary in-person, face-to-face practice of psychology
- Focuses on psychology and psychologist

Interstate Compacts

The What, Why and How of an Interstate Compact?

- What: A legislatively enacted contract among states
- Why:
 - Policy problems transcend borders
 - Addresses patchwork of state laws & regulations
 - Retains state sovereignty
- How: Compact Commissions administer and coordinate cooperation.

Few Facts about an Interstate Compact

- Simple, versatile, and proven tool
- Effective means to address common problems
- Contract between states
- Responds to national priorities with one voice
- Retains collective state sovereignty over issues belonging to the states
- Assist states in developing and enforcing standards while providing a structure that can evolve to meet new and increased demands as needed.

Is there more to know about compacts?

- There are over 270 active compacts
- Each state has enacted between 20 and 80 compacts (AK: 36; FL: 37; IA: 44; LA: 40; NV: 37 & OK: 47)
- Compacts used for:
 - Borders and Land/Water Administration
 - Transportation
 - Other

What is an Occupational Licensure Compact

An interstate compact among states to improve workforce mobility for licensed professionals

States joining the compact agree to the compact uniform criteria by which qualified practitioners from a member state may utilize the compact pathway to practice

The compact pathway to practice streamlines the process compared to the traditional licensure model

Occupational licensure compacts are developed uniquely for a particular profession, or set of closely related professions

Policy Advantages of Occupational Licensure Compacts

- Two-way reciprocity among participating states
- Compliance standards among states ensures enforceability of provisions
- Does not supplant existing pathways and scopes of practice
- Voluntary for states to join and for practitioners to use

Occupational Compacts by the Numbers

- There are now 21 Occupational Licensure Compacts with 426 enactments, and 53 of those occurred in 2025 (AK: 8; FL: 5; IA: 15; LA: 9; NV: 8 & OK: 12)

So, What is an Interstate Compact Commission

- What it is:
 - It's a body politic
 - It's an instrumentality of the state governments which join the compact
 - It has rulemaking authority, and its rules have the effect of law in the member states
 - It is, therefore, a multi-state governmental rulemaking body
- What it is not:
 - It's not a nonprofit corporation
 - It's not a private "membership" organization
 - It's not a professional association

PSYPACT Governance Structure

- PSYPACT Commission – Make final decisions re: compliance issues, annual budget, rules, policies and bylaw amendments
- PSYPACT Commission Executive Board – Supervise the overall direction and vision, make initial recommendations re: compliance issues, annual budget, rules, policies and bylaw amendments
- PSYPACT Commission Committees – Consists of Commissioners and other members as designated by the Commission to evaluate the needs of the Commission
- PSYPACT Executive Director and PSYPACT Specialists– Manage the day-to-day operations of PSYPACT

Understanding How PSYPACT Works

Cross-State Telepsychology Services

PSYPACT allows licensed psychologists to offer telepsychology services across participating states, expanding client access to mental health care.

How it Works Flyer

Understanding How PSYPACT Works

Expanding Access to Psychological Services Across State Lines

The Psychology Interjurisdictional Compact (PSYPACT) is an interstate compact that allows licensed psychologists to practice across participating states without obtaining additional licenses in each state.

- Participating states pass PSYPACT legislation
- States join the PSYPACT Commission
- Licensed psychologists can apply for authorization to practice across state lines

Two Ways PSYPACT Supports Practice

1 APIT®

Authority to Practice Interjurisdictional Telepsychology

- For telepsychology only
- Prerequisite: ASPPB E.Passport
- Practice from your Home State
- Client is located in a participating Receiving State

Impact: Expands virtual care across PSYPACT states.

2 TAP®

Temporary Authorization to Practice

- For in-person, face-to-face services
- Prerequisite: ASPPB IPC
- Up to 30 days per state, per year
- Practice in a participating Distant State

Impact: Supports short-term, in-person services across state lines.

How PSYPACT Fits Into Service Delivery

PSYPACT creates a structured pathway that:

- ✓ Reduces licensure barriers
- ✓ Increases continuity of care when clients relocate
- ✓ Expands access to telehealth
- ✓ Supports workforce mobility
- ✓ Maintains state authority and public protection

Psychologists remain licensed in their Home State and are subject to the laws of the state where the client is located.

Key Updates & Progress

PSYPACT Commission

The PSYPACT Commission is the governing body of PSYPACT responsible for oversight of the compact and for writing the Bylaws and Rules that govern PSYPACT. Each PSYPACT state has appointed a representative to serve as their state's Commissioner. For more information about the meetings as well as future meeting dates, please visit the Scheduled Meetings page at psypact.gov.

PSYPACT Applications

On July 1, 2020, applications to practice under the authority of PSYPACT officially opened. There are two ways to practice under PSYPACT. A psychologist licensed in a PSYPACT state can apply to practice telepsychology and/or conduct in-person, face-to-face practice in PSYPACT states.

In Progress

Continue completing your application. You can save progress and return at any time.

Welcome to your application checklist! This checklist is specific to the certificate application you have selected. Use the "EDIT" buttons to complete each of the sections below. If you are unable to complete a section at one time, use the "SAVE AS INCOMPLETE" to save your progress and return at a later time. If you already have information stored in your Credentials Bank, it has autopopulated into your application and you will just have to review it to ensure that it is current.

Once you have saved each section as complete, you will be able to submit your application to ASPPB for review. Your Mobility Program Representative will complete the final verification process and your completed application will be sent through the formal review process. Check your "My Activity Summary" to stay informed about the status of your application as it progresses. If you have any questions during this process, please do not hesitate to contact your Mobility Program Representative directly or send us an email at pspro@asppb.org!

Rusty Von Barksalot, congratulations! You have been granted an APIT® (Authority to Practice Interjurisdictional Telepsychology) by The PSYPACT Commission!

Share on LinkedIn

View my authorization

The PSYPACT Commission has determined that you have met all requirements for the Authority to Practice Interjurisdictional Telepsychology (APIT) and your application has been approved! You may now begin practicing telepsychology under the authority of PSYPACT in PSYPACT participating states. For a list of current PSYPACT participating states, please visit the PSYPACT website at: <https://www.psypact.org/psypactmap>.

As you begin to practice, there are a few important items to keep in mind:

1. In order to maintain your APIT, you must also maintain your E.Passport® with ASPPB®. Your E.Passport is valid for one year, beginning on your issue date. Be sure to renew your E.Passport and complete all necessary Continuing Education requirements in a timely manner in order to continue practicing under PSYPACT.
2. If you relocate to another PSYPACT participating state where you are licensed, be sure to let us know. You must keep your HOME STATE of licensure current in PSY|PRO® (www.psypro.org) at all times. To access your Home State declaration page in PSY|PRO, select "Home State Declaration" in the APIT line item listed in your Application History and update as needed.

IMPORTANT: For the practice of telepsychology under PSYPACT, Home State is the PSYPACT state where you are licensed to practice

Congratulations! The PSYPACT Commission has received your Authority to Practice Interjurisdictional Telepsychology (APIT®) renewal application and has determined that you have met all requirements for renewal. Your APIT is valid for the dates listed, as renewals are required annually.

As your next renewal date approaches, the PSYPACT Commission will send reminder notifications via email. Accordingly, it is extremely important that you notify us promptly of any changes to your contact information.

For your convenience, we have created an Authorization Holder Toolkit that can be found HERE.

Application and Renewal Pain Points

Applications

- Not providing primary source documents
- A primary source document is a document, such as a transcript, whose authenticity has been directly confirmed by the original issuing authority or verified by an authority designated to do so in the event the original authority has ceased to exist.
- Not completing the APIT application and stopping at the issuance of the E.Passport
- Only the APIT allows for practicing under PSYPACT

Renewals

- Starting a new E.Passport/APIT or IPC/TAP application when only needing the renew

Compact Law, Bylaws, Rules and Policies

Introduction

The Psychology Interjurisdictional Compact Commission is a quasi-governmental agency and is the sole entity permitted to administer the Compact. In doing its administrative work, the Commission must not only follow the language of the Compact, but also the rules and policies created by the Commission to govern itself.

The Commission's governance materials can be found on this page. Please see each section below for a brief description and its pertinent governance materials.

Where can I find the PSYPACT governing documents?

<https://psypact.gov/page/governance>

Governance Documents of Interest: Rules

- Rules
 - Rule 4 – Compact Privilege to Practice Telepsychology
 - 4-5
 - 4.10 State Law to Protect the Health and Safety of its Citizens
 - 4.11 – Authorization Validity
 - Rule 5 – Compact Temporary Authorization to Practice
 - 5.10 State Law to Protect the Health and Safety of its Citizens
 - 5.11 – Authorization Validity
 - Rule 6 – Conditions of Telepsychology Practice into a Receiving State – Scope of Practice

Governance Documents of Interest: Policies

- Policy 1.29 – PSYPACT's Use of AI
- Policy 1.32 – Process for Cooperation with External Organizations
- Policy 2.3 – Application Review Process
- Policy 2.4 – Authorization Holder Notification – Home State/Licensure Change
- Policy 2.6 – Advertising PSYPACT Credentials

Grounds for Revocation: Rule 4.14/5.14

- An authorization may be revoked by the PSYPACT Staff or by the Requirements Review Committee whenever the Staff or Committee has sufficient evidence that the Authorization Holder has engaged in acts, including but not limited to the following:

ENFORCEMENT AND COMPLIANCE— OIG'S JULY 2022 SPECIAL FRAUD ALERT

Provides information for practitioners to help identify potentially “suspect” arrangements with telemedicine companies

OIG encourages practitioners to use heightened scrutiny and exercise caution before entering into arrangements with telemedicine companies

Includes an illustrative list of “suspect characteristics” related to provider arrangements with telemedicine companies that, taken together or separately, could suggest an arrangement presents a heightened risk of fraud and abuse

Special Fraud Alert: OIG Alerts Practitioners To Exercise Caution When Entering Into Arrangements With Purported Telemedicine Companies

July 20, 2022

I. Introduction

The Office of Inspector General (OIG) has conducted dozens of investigations of fraud schemes involving companies that purported to provide telehealth, telemedicine, or telemarketing services (collectively, Telemedicine Companies) and exploited the growing acceptance and use of telehealth. For example, in some of these fraud schemes Telemedicine Companies intentionally paid physicians and nonphysician practitioners (collectively, Practitioners) kickbacks to generate orders or prescriptions for medically unnecessary durable medical equipment, genetic testing, wound care items, or prescription medications, resulting in submissions of fraudulent claims to Medicare, Medicaid, and other Federal health care programs. These fraud schemes vary in design and operation, and they have involved a wide range of different individuals and types of entities, including international and domestic telemarketing call centers, staffing companies, Practitioners, marketers, brokers, and others.

One common element of these schemes is the way Telemedicine Companies have used kickbacks to aggressively recruit and reward Practitioners to further the fraud schemes. Generally, the Telemedicine Companies arrange with Practitioners to order or prescribe medically unnecessary items and services for individuals (referred to here as “purported patients”) who are solicited and recruited by Telemedicine Companies. In many of these arrangements, Telemedicine Companies pay Practitioners in exchange for ordering or prescribing items or services: (1) for purported patients with whom the Practitioners have limited, if any, interaction; and (2) without regard to medical necessity. Such payments are sometimes described as payment per review, audit, consult, or assessment of medical charts. Telemedicine Companies often tell Practitioners that they do not need to contact the purported patient or that they only need speak to the purported patient by telephone. In addition, Practitioners are not given an opportunity to review the purported patient’s real medical records. Furthermore, the Telemedicine Company may direct Practitioners to order or prescribe a preselected item or service, regardless of medical necessity or clinical appropriateness. In many cases, the Telemedicine Company sells the order or prescription generated by Practitioners to other individuals or entities that then fraudulently bill for the unnecessary items and services.

These schemes raise fraud concerns because of the potential for considerable harm to Federal health care programs and their beneficiaries, which may include: (1) an inappropriate increase in

ENFORCEMENT AND COMPLIANCE— OIG'S SEPTEMBER 2022 DATA BRIEF

OIG evaluated Medicare fee-for-service claims data and Medicare Advantage encounter data for the first year of the pandemic (Mar. 2020 thru Feb. 2021)

OIG developed 7 potential indicators of fraud, waste, or abuse:

Billing both a telehealth service and a facility fee for most visits;

Billing telehealth services at highest, most expensive level every time;

Billing telehealth services for a high number of days in a year;

Billing both Medicare FFS and a Medicare Advantage plan for the same service for a high proportion of services;

Billing a high average number of hours of telehealth services per visit;

Billing telehealth services for a high number of Medicare beneficiaries; and

Billing for a telehealth service and ordering medical equipment for a high proportion of Medicare beneficiaries

Medicare Telehealth Services During the First Year of the Pandemic: Program Integrity Risks

Key Takeaways

- Our findings demonstrate the importance of effective, targeted oversight of telehealth services to ensure that the benefits of telehealth are realized while minimizing risk.
- We identified 1,714 providers out of approximately 742,000 whose billing for telehealth services poses a high risk to Medicare.
- Each of these providers had concerning billing on at least one of seven measures that may indicate fraud, waste, or abuse.
- These providers billed for telehealth services for about half a million beneficiaries.
- Many of these providers are a part of the same medical practice as at least one other provider whose billing poses a high risk.

Why OIG Did This Review

The COVID-19 pandemic created unprecedented challenges for how Medicare beneficiaries access health care. In response, the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) and the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) took a number of actions to temporarily expand access to telehealth for Medicare beneficiaries.¹ In addition, CMS temporarily paused several program integrity activities, including medical reviews of claims.²

In a related report, the Office of Inspector General (OIG) found that the use of telehealth increased dramatically during the first year of the pandemic.³ More than 28 million Medicare beneficiaries—about 2 in 5—used telehealth services that first year. In total, beneficiaries used 88 times more telehealth services during the first year of the pandemic than they did in the prior year.

The changes to Medicare telehealth policies, along with the dramatic increase in the use of telehealth, underscore the importance of determining whether providers are billing for telehealth services appropriately and how to best protect Medicare and beneficiaries against fraud, waste, and abuse.

This data brief describes providers' billing for telehealth services and identifies ways to safeguard Medicare from fraud, waste, and abuse related to telehealth. This information can help CMS, Congress, and other stakeholders determine what safeguards may be needed as they consider permanent changes to telehealth policies in Medicare.

This report is part of a series that examines the use of telehealth in Medicare and the characteristics of beneficiaries who used telehealth during the pandemic.⁴

How OIG Did This Review

This data brief is based on an analysis of Medicare fee-for-service claims data and Medicare Advantage encounter data for the first year of the pandemic from March 1, 2020, to February 28, 2021. We focused our analysis on the approximately 742,000 providers who billed for a telehealth service. Using input from OIG investigators, we developed seven measures that focus on different types of billing for telehealth services that may indicate fraud, waste, or abuse. For each of these measures, we set very

Verification of PSYPACT Authorizations

PSYPACT is an interstate compact that allows psychologists authorized by the PSYPACT Commission to practice telepsychology and/or practice temporarily into other PSYPACT participating states. To practice telepsychology under the authority of PSYPACT, a psychologist must have an active Authority to Practice Interjurisdictional Telepsychology (APIT) granted from the PSYPACT Commission. To practice temporarily under the authority of PSYPACT, a psychologist must have an active Temporary Authorization to Practice (TAP) granted from the PSYPACT Commission. The PSYPACT Commission provides online primary source verification of these authorizations. To view all psychologists holding a current APIT or TAP, use the search by method below to get started. If you have any questions or need any additional information for PSYPACT verifications, contact us at info@psypact.org.
