Family:

Married since 1972 to Rev. Dr. Lynn Schudy Ziese, first female pastor in the South for The American Lutheran Church. Daughter, Rachel, ELCA pastor in Pennsylvania. Son, Jonathan, university professor in New York. Son, Timothy, government attorney in Washington, DC. Seven grandchildren.

List four key functions of the office.

1. Handle duties of the office as outlined in ELCA and synod documents. 2. Provide care to congregations and fostered leaders. 3. Be a symbol of the unity of the church. 4. Be a public voice for the Southwestern Texas Synod, Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, and one, holy, catholic, and apostolic church.

What personal strengths you bring to the Office of the Bishop:

Since my youth, I have had a long history of Lutheran leadership and parish service in Texas. As President of the Texas Lutheran College Student Association, I appointed the first officers who were members of racial minorities and have been committed to diversity ever since. I am now a volunteer Lutheran voice in South Texas for an international Lutheran group pursuing efforts to preserve democracy and reject authoritarianism, using insights from leaders of the Peaceful Revolution in East Germany. If called as synod bishop, I will recruit others to help with this international work and update my ethics training.

What your leadership style is:

I am a collegial leader who emphasizes leadership development. I see the synodical bishop more as a denominational middle manager than a local CEO. I would re-energize committees such as poverty and justice, consultation, and discipline to help spread out the workload and involve more people. I would encourage deans to be the front line of care in their areas. I would call the Seguin office the synod office instead of the office of the bishop to keep the focus on all the people of God and not on me. I would want to teach as well as preach.

What vision you bring for the Synod and the ELCA:

The synod, ELCA, and other mainline Protestant groups have seen numeric declines in recent years. We need to adapt our mission to a different church and world. While Texas can sometimes be isolated and provincial, I recognize that Lutherans need to offer a more global perspective. We need to work more with other faith and civic groups and bring Lutheran biblical interpretation, theology, and history to the table. We need more public witness and better communication to improve our outreach. The ELCA needs to recognize a global expression as well as the current congregation, synod, and churchwide expressions.

Honors and Awards Received:

First Alum in Residence, Luther Seminary; MTh in Systematic Theology, Luther Seminary; DMin in Comprehensive Stewardship, Garrett-Evangelical Seminary; ELCA representative to End of Cold War and End of Berlin Wall celebration in 2019 in Germany; Texas representative to Lutheran Ethicists Gathering in 2020 in Washington, DC.
