The Zones of Regulation

At Trawalla, we use The Zones of Regulation curriculum to support students in developing self-regulation and emotional control. We are sharing The Zones poster with families so it can also be used at home, helping create consistency between school and home environments.

The Zones of Regulation can benefit everyone—not just students. When students begin using The Zones, families often find it helpful for supporting other children and even themselves in understanding and managing emotions.

Please let Kate know if you would like more information on The Zones of Regulation.

National Sorry Day

Today, Tuesday 26th May, is National Sorry Day. The students in F-3 during RRRR (Resilience, Rights and Respectful Relationships), made a bouquet of Australian native flowers in yellow, to show their support for The Children's Ground, an organisation empowering First Nations-led education, health and wellbeing.

International Tea Day

Last Thursday, 21st May, we celebrated International Tea Day with a fun and engaging activity. Students baked lemonade cupcakes and enjoyed preparing cups of tea and hot chocolate to mark the occasion.

As part of the learning, they discovered that tea is the most widely consumed drink in the world and that it was first discovered in China over 4,000 years ago.

Walk Safely to School Day

Since it's a bit tricky for our students to walk to school, we chose to celebrate Walk Safely to School Day by seeing how many laps of the oval students could do in 30 minutes. Some students chose to run or walk.
