Driving sustainability forward

Combining innovative technology and long-term expertise to advance sustainability goals

Empowering circular economy to enhance product longevity and improve resource utilization

Supporting the energy transition with advanced drive and control technology

Enhancing product efficiency to conserve valuable energy and resources

Lowering environmental impact through carbon footprint reduction

Product Lifecycle in focus

Levers reducing carbon footprint in product lifecycle

Collaboration with suppliers to reduce the material carbon footprint

Material and energy-efficient product design compatible with circular economy principles

Product durability and conservation of resources through retrofit and remanufacturing

Emphasizing local sourcing and manufacturing, where reasonably possible

Improving production processes to increase energy efficiency and replace fossil fuels where reasonable

Enhancing the energy and resource efficiency in the use phase of products

Comprehensive approach to sustainability throughout the product life cycle

Digital transformation for future industries

Upgrade Industries

Innovation mindset:

Artificial Intelligence as an accelerator

for digital ambitions

Scaling value creation

through open ecosystems

Solutions with lifetime support for more productive and sustainable industries and transparent Business Operations

Delivering the right data and services to customers at the right time

Passionate Team

“Drive your career.
Move the world.”

Our history

1795–1964

Move from iron foundry to hydraulic solutions

From forging iron out of ore to a foundry for cast iron, Rexroth entered the hydraulics market in the 1950s and laid the foundation to become a global market leader.

1965–1995

Move from hydraulics to multi-technology provider

The company expands its portfolio with electrical drives and controls, axial piston pumps and motors, linear and assembly technologies and develops into a full provider of industrial and mobile hydraulics.

1996–2000

Move to provide integrated multi-technology solutions

Rexroth develops multi-technological solutions to overcome the limits of single technologies, unlocking the progress in semiconductors and software for all technologies to increase productivity and flexibility.

2001–2016

Move to one brand for software driven and interconnectible Drive & Control solutions

The merger of Mannesmann Rexroth with Bosch Automations-technik establishes a global leader for Drive & Control solutions. They reach new levels of seamless integration of all relevant technologies for improved energy efficiency and safety.

2017– today

Move into the future of digital transformation

Bosch Rexroth drives the digital transformation of the Factory of the Future, exceeds the limits with Connected Hydraulics and sets the stage for Transforming Mobile Machines. All products and solutions contribute to a more sustainable development of machines, manufacturing and daily life.
