Course Description: This is an educator empowerment course that engages participants in self inquiry and a reflective process. The basic premise of this course is that we must intentionally and deliberately prepare all students for thinking critically while reinforcing culturally responsive learning that will engage and empower them in the present and better prepare them for a global future. Culturally Responsive Deeper learning provides a road map for preparing students beyond 21st Century skills and is a term which encompasses all the knowledge, skills, and the myriad of ways of thinking students need to adopt in order to be prepared and eventually become successful navigating their present and future lives

- Develop meaningful moments and conversations with children, adolescents, colleagues and parents related to key concepts
- Define and utilize the foundational tools necessary to setting the conditions Thinking Critically and Solving Complex Problems
- Set the stage for discovering and developing the students strengths in utilizing common core standards as a framework for increasing capacity though innovative and empowered thinking and academic mindset
- Legitimize and address how to extend the learning experience of students whose creative potential is emerging through the use of student driven project and service learning projects
- Deliberately integrate strategies that actively support the philosophy that “each student brings something essential to the learning environment that must be regarded and embraced”
- Develop specific practical strategies for engaging and working with students at each developmental level utilizing strategies that strengthen deeper learning
