CEO Report ~ NOVEMBER 2025

"The Lord is not slow to fulfill his promise as some count slowness, but is patient toward you, not wishing that any should perish, but that all should reach repentance." ~ 2 Peter 3:9

ADVOCACY EFFORTS

The value of political advocacy lies in its ability to shape society, influence policy, and ensure that diverse voices are represented in decision-making. Here at Eben Ezer, I have learned how important and necessary this work is for our organization and all those we serve. The decision made by our elected officials has real impacts. They need to be informed on how their decisions may affect their constituents.

- Advocacy empowers citizens and groups to engage actively in the democratic process.
- It goes beyond voting — allowing people to influence laws, regulations, and priorities through petitions, lobbying, public campaigns, and direct engagement with leaders.
- Not all communities have equal access to power. Advocacy ensures that underrepresented or vulnerable groups (e.g., elderly, people with disabilities, and others) can have their needs and perspectives heard.
- This promotes equity and social justice in policymaking.
- Many major reforms — such as civil rights, environmental protection, or labor rights — originated from sustained advocacy movements.
- Advocacy can catalyze legislative and social change by raising awareness, mobilizing support, and holding institutions accountable.

This week I will be at the annual LeadingAge conference, joining together with other leaders in the field of senior living during very challenging times for the aging services sector. Many providers are feeling discouraged by the devastating cutbacks in store for social safety net programs, including Medicaid. Providers worldwide are struggling to meet the rapidly growing needs of the global aging population. Many of us are worried about what the future might bring amid the shrinking workforce and increasing demands for those needing diverse levels of care needs. Yet, others feel isolated as they try to fulfill their missions amid mounting challenges and shrinking public support. This is the time for us to keep charging ahead to ensure our elders receive the care and services they need and that the value of our services is acknowledged amongst the payors to ensure our team members receive compensation commensurate to the work, energy, and compassion they give.

Gods Work. Our Hands.

Here at home myself, Board members, and other members of senior administration have been meeting one-on-one with our local, state, and federal leaders to advocate for those we serve. This fall, I have already met with State Representative Dusty Johnson and staff members from Representative Lauren Boebert's office. I have upcoming meetings scheduled with staff members from Governor Polis's office and Senator Hickenlooper's office. We continue to reach out to all the other legislative bodies to advocate for all these needs. We know the pool of resources is limited and not getting bigger but through these conversations engagement of our politicians will allow us to problem solve and find ways to best meet the needs of those we serve. We are committed to ensuring our voices are heard.

I will continue to educate, stay active, and advocate as often as I can. If you are interested in more information or ways you can join the effort, please reach out to me.

~ Shelly
