“What are you building... and will it outlive you?”

From the desk of: Judah Swagerty, Head Publisher

I’ve spent years helping entrepreneurs build brands... websites, funnels, content, authority. From the outside, it looked like progress. But something didn’t sit right.

I started noticing a pattern.

A lot of people were building... but they didn’t know what they were building toward.

They were chasing income, followers, and deals. Winning in the moment... but not building anything that would last.

And then I looked closer to home.

New Bedford. The South Coast.

There’s real greatness here... real builders, real stories, real grit. People creating, leading, and sacrificing every day. And I felt it clearly... this wasn’t something to just observe. It was a calling.

To bring these people together.

To build something with them.

To create an ecosystem rooted in purpose, not just progress.

Because legacy isn’t built by accident.

It’s built with intention... through decisions, sacrifice, leadership, and responsibility.

That’s why we’re creating Legacy Builders.

This isn’t just a book about business.

It’s about what you’re building... why you’re building it... and who it’s for beyond you.

Each author steps into that question:

What are you building... and what will it mean 10, 20, 50 years from now?

Through three layers:

1. The Foundation... your story.
2. The Build... your work.
3. The Legacy... your impact.

Because at the end of the day...What you build should outlive you.
