MONROEVILLE MAIN STREET: HISTORIC DOWNTOWN REVIVAL

In Monroeville, a walkable courthouse square tells two stories at once: one of deep literary heritage, and one of bold, measureable downtown comeback.

Since forming in 2014, Monroeville Main Street has led a preservation-first revival that earned the 2024 Great American Main Street Award from Main Street America, recognizing one of the strongest examples of comprehensive downtown revitalization in the country. The results are visible on every block: $12.2 million in private reinvestment, almost $600,000 in public investment, 42 new businesses, and 42 rehabilitated buildings/structures, which include 15 award-winning Airbnbs with more under construction, and momentum that helped reduce vacancy from 31% to 7% and create 65+ new jobs.

What makes Monroeville especially distinctive is how growth is tied to identity. New public art invites you to explore 17 murals, 14 bronze sculptures in the Literary Capital Sculpture Trail, and a 24-panel story trail that celebrates reading. And right around the corner, local shops, restaurants, and makers keep adding new reasons to come back, because downtown doesn't just look better; it's busier, fuller and more alive.

Monroeville Main Street is also bringing science into the heart of downtown through the highly competitive Science Discovery on Main Street national grants, earning both 1 of 12 Assessment Grants and 1 of 7 Implementation Grants. The initiative will culminate with the unveiling of a new Constellation Trail and a telescope checkout program through the Monroe County Public Library in June 2026, inviting both residents and visitors to explore the night sky in a fresh, downtown-friendly way through constellation-themed stops and interpretive elements designed to make astronomy and our uniquely visible stars accessible, engaging, and fun for all ages.

Come stroll the square, shop local, meet the people behind the doors, and see what happens when a community invests in its historic heart - the keeps showing up for it.

Come join us in historic Monroeville—explore our charming downtown, visit local shops and restaurants, and stay in award-winning Airbnbs.

Downtown Monroeville is ready to welcome you!

History of Monroe County

*I*n bygone eras, the land that now comprises Monroeville was inhabited by the Creek Indians, witnessing clashes between France, Spain, and England. The year 1815 marked a pivotal moment when the Creek Indians ceded their territory at the Treaty of Fort Jackson, leading to the establishment of the county by the proclamation of the governor of the Mississippi Territory. At its inception, the county encompassed about one-third of present-day Alabama and earned the title of the "Mother County."

Monroeville, designated as the seat of government for Monroe County in 1832, received its official incorporation in 1899. Both the town and the county were named in homage to U.S. President James Monroe.

When exploring Monroeville, be sure to immerse yourself in its rich history. For those seeking guidance, the Chamber's welcome center at 86 North Alabama Avenue offers a guided walking tour brochure, while tourism information kiosks can be found at different locations on the square.

Rikard's Mill

Monroe County boasts a plethora of famous historic sites, including the Masonic Hall at Perdue Hill (circa 1823, visited by the Marquis de Lafayette), Burnt Corn (the site of the outbreak of the Creek Indian War of 1814), Rikard's Mill (a restored gristmill and park north of Beatrice), and the quaint old railroad town of Peterman, among many others that grace its landscape.

Storytelling Come Alive

Step inside Monroeville's beautiful 1903 courthouse and experience one of Alabama's most treasured landmarks. Once the county seat, this historic courthouse is now home to the Monroe County Museum, a place where visitors can explore the stories, people, and places that helped shape Monroeville's identity as the Literary Capital of Alabama.

Lovingly restored through a grassroots effort from 1989 to 2002, the courthouse was named a National Historic Landmark in 2021, the highest recognition given by the federal government. Fewer than 3 percent of properties listed on the National Register of Historic Places receive this honor, making the Monroe County Courthouse a truly special destination.

The museum features permanent exhibits celebrating two of Monroeville's most famous writers, Harper Lee and Truman Capote, childhood friends whose literary legacies continue to bring visitors from across the United States and around the world. Harper Lee's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, To Kill a Mockingbird, published in 1960, forever connected Monroeville to readers everywhere and continues to inspire generations of literary tourists. Visitors can stand in the very courtroom that helped inspire the beloved story, learn more about the lives of Lee and Capote, and discover why Monroeville remains a must-see destination for book lovers, history enthusiasts, and anyone who appreciates Southern culture.

Each spring, the courthouse square comes alive with the celebrated stage production of To Kill a Mockingbird, performed by the volunteer cast known as The Mockingbird Players. The play begins outdoors in the Otha Lee Biggs Amphitheater and continues upstairs in the historic courtroom, creating an unforgettable

MONROE COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY

For nearly 100 years, the Monroe County Public Library has served as an important resource for the citizens of Monroe County. Located just off the historic Monroe County Courthouse Square, the library is considered a rural library but maintains the largest collection of books, periodicals, and DVDs in the county.

Housed in the historic former LaSalle Hotel, the library continues to provide a welcoming space for the community. Visitors can relax with a cup of coffee, read the latest edition of the Monroe Journal, access current weather information, or reserve small meeting spaces. In 2025, the library recorded more than 8,000 patron and guest visits and is on track to welcome even more visitors in 2026.

The Monroe County Public Library is one of the few locations in the area where residents may use desktop computers free of charge with a valid library card. A major addition in 2025 was Monroe County's first Children's Library. The entire first floor has been remodeled and dedicated to children and teens under age 18. Young visitors can enjoy books, games, movies, STEM activities, an upright piano, crafts, and educational programs. The space also hosts "Painting with a Purpose" youth art classes and "My Mini & Me Yoga with Ms. Karen."

100 Years Later and Still Going Strong

These programs complement the library's long-standing Summer Reading Program, which encourages children to read throughout the summer through engaging activities and experiences.

The second floor features new bestsellers, movies, periodicals, reading nooks, meeting spaces, a genealogy research room, a biography room, and an Alabama Room. It also hosts "Crafts & Coffee" adult art classes, meetings of the Monroeville Chess Club, and other educational and business gatherings.

Beyond its physical collections, the library provides access to numerous online resources through its website, www.moncolib.org. Library cardholders can use Homework Alabama, the Libby app, and Alabama's Digital Library at no cost.

Since its earliest conception in 1926 and its first location in 1927, the Monroe County Public Library has remained committed to lifelong learning. Managed by paid staff and dedicated volunteers, the library continues to evolve while fulfilling its mission of serving the educational and informational needs of Monroe County.

For more information please visit www.moncolib.org or browse the online collection in the Libby app.

ENTERPRISE OF MONROE RESCUE COUNTY

Elevating Healthcare
for Monroe County

For over six decades, Enterprise Rescue has been serving Alabama counties with one mission in mind: providing emergency medical care when it's needed most.

With its roots in Coffee County, ERI began in the 1960s. In their early days, Enterprise Rescue Incorporated was first known as the Enterprise Rescue Squad. ERI's first EMS calls were answered by volunteers using a hearse as an ambulance.

In 1997, the Enterprise Rescue Squad became what is now known as Enterprise Rescue, Inc. As a member-run, non-profit EMS service, Enterprise Rescue has remained committed to serving small counties across Southern Alabama.

The organization operates through three primary divisions: Ground, Air, and Wheelchair Vans. The Ground division covers all of Coffee, Monroe, and Butler counties and portions of Clarke and Dale. The Wheelchair Van division provides non-emergency medical transportation services to patients throughout the several counties Enterprise Rescue covers.

The Air division is Enterprise Rescue's most significant service. In partnership with PHI Air Medical, Enterprise Rescue operates three medical bases in Enterprise, Andalusia, and Monroeville, where they provide critical care to thousands of Alabama residents.

In February of 2025, ERI officially began 24/7 EMS operations covering all of Monroe County. Last July, they opened their third medical air base at Monroe County Airport, known as Air Three. The base is in Monroeville and houses several 24/7 advanced life support crews. Air Three is also staffed 24/7 by two clinicians and one pilot, servicing Monroe County, Monroe County Hospital, and several surrounding counties, facilities and communities.

Less than two years ago, Enterprise Rescue only had 100 employees in three counties; today, they employ over 250 people as the company has grown dramatically with the addition of Monroe, Butler, and Clarke counties in the last year alone. In Monroe and Clarke, ERI employs about 75 people across the three divisions, contributing to 30% of the company.

From its small-town origins to a regional emergency medical service provider, Enterprise Rescue has remained committed to serving communities in need across South Alabama.

CHOOSING A LOCAL REALTOR MATTERS

In small-town real estate specifically, Monroe County and surrounding areas, buying or selling a home is about more than square footage and price tags. It's about community knowledge, trust and relationships built over time. That's why many residents find that working with a local realtor offers advantages that out-of-town agents simply can't replicate.

Local realtors bring firsthand knowledge of the community that goes far beyond online listings. They understand neighborhood histories, school districts, zoning changes and local development plans. In a small town, where subtle differences between streets or neighborhoods can significantly affect property value, that insight matters.

Relationships also play a critical role in local real estate. Area realtors often have established connections with lenders, inspectors, appraisers, attorneys and other real estate professionals in the area. These working relationships can help transactions move more smoothly and efficiently, especially when unexpected issues arise.

Market knowledge is another key advantage. Small-town housing markets don't always follow regional or national trends. Local realtors understand what buyers in the community are truly looking for and how homes should be priced accordingly. This helps sellers avoid overpricing or underpricing and helps buyers make informed decisions.

Equally important is the level of service. Local realtors rely heavily on word-of-mouth and community reputation. Their success depends on providing honest guidance, timely communication, and strong results. In a small town, accountability matters — and local professionals know their name and reputation are tied to every transaction.

Choosing a local realtor also keeps investment within the community. Local professionals live, work and spend locally, supporting schools, businesses and community events. When commissions stay in town, they help strengthen the local economy.

Monroe County area real estate is inherently personal. Buyers and sellers benefit from working with someone who understands not just the market, but the people and the place itself. While out-of-town realtors may offer broader reach, local realtors offer something just as valuable: genuine community expertise and commitment.

Those qualities can make all the difference with local real estate in Monroe County and surrounding areas.

The Monroe County Real Estate Association is made up of a group of locally owned brokerages. These licensed real estate professionals proudly represent buyers and sellers in residential, commercial and land transactions.

Brokerages with membership in the Monroe County Real Estate Association are Omni Agency, Martin Realty, Woodland Realty, Hudson Hines Real Estate, Rodie's Realty and Farish Agency. Members of the association include Christina Mosley (President), Marthe Weaver (Secretary), Jamie Dykes (Vice President), Hudson Hines (Treasurer), Mollie Strickland, Logan Owens, Jess Martin, Diane Simmons, Amelia Stacey, Pete Coats, Suzanne White, Rodie Ruffin, Fran Cook, Laura Bodiford, Christi Dunn, Martha Nall Armstrong, Colton Cumbie, Steve Dunn, Janice Henderson, Miriam Weaver, Christi Farish and Danny O'Brien.

The Monroe County Public School System consists of seven schools, a Career Technical Center, and an alternative program. Student enrollment is 2,900 students. Monroe County Public School System's Superintendent Marty Hanks is actively engaged in enhancing educational opportunities for the students of Monroe County. This includes the JROTC program, which can lead to a career in the military. The school system offers various extracurricular activities, including robotics. Students have been very successful in these programs.

Monroe County School System has upgraded the wireless connectivity for all schools because teaching through technology is the key to student success as they pursue careers and post-secondary education. All schools have computer labs and portable computer carts that enhance students' education.

In partnership with our stakeholders, the Monroe County Board of Education is fully obligated to provide educational opportunities of the highest quality and academic excellence in safe and orderly learning environments for all students. The Monroe County School System is preparing all students to achieve their highest potential as learners and citizens.

Private School

Monroe Academy, founded in 1969, is a independent day school with approximately 300 students enrolled in K3 through 12th grade, consisting of preschool, lower elementary, upper elementary, and high school. The school is committed to excellence in education in a Christian environment, and that commitment is felt in everything from the classroom to the community. Many students represent third and even fourth generations enrolled at Monroe Academy, a testament to the deep roots and lasting trust that families place in the school. That same spirit is reflected in the school's newest Head of School, Mr. Caleb Smith. Mr. Smith is a Monroeville native and Monroe Academy graduate who is returning to lead the place he has always called home.

Small class sizes are preferred, allowing opportunities for more individual attention for each student. Over the past 10 years, the school's graduation rate has been 100 percent, and in an average year, 95 percent of graduates enter colleges or technical colleges with 75 percent or more receiving scholarships.

The school offers a diverse range of activities including service clubs, majorettes and color guard, team sports, chapel, fine arts, foreign language, student government, 4-H, and technology classes. Participation in the AISA offers junior high and senior high scholars bowl, creative writing contests, spelling bee, visual arts show, and other technology and fine arts options. Monroe Academy aims to produce well-rounded students who graduate ready to become productive and beneficial members of their community.

Monroe Academy also offers a fully accredited day care program for three- and four-year-olds. The facility is self-contained on the MA campus and is open from 6:45 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. The preschool classes offer a technology-rich environment, imaginative free play, and a variety of fine arts. A secure playground area is available and utilized multiple times throughout the day.

Students are encouraged to be involved in the community and develop an appreciation for the world around them. All students are required to complete a minimum of 75 service hours prior to graduation.

Monroe Academy is a member of the Alabama Independent School Association (AISA), a Cognia-accredited institution, and a Blue Ribbon School, all of which reflect the hard work of students, educators, staff, families, and community members in building a school where students are challenged, supported, and set up to thrive.

Secondary Education

A promising future...that is what defines the Monroeville Campus of Coastal Alabama Community College. In 1963, Monroeville was named one of the original community college locations in Alabama as the two-year system was being established. More than 60 years later, the campus is still going strong and is providing access to higher education opportunities for the area.

Each year brings new excitement on the Monroeville Campus as students experience excellence in the classroom and on the court (or field). In March 2026, the Coastal Alabama – North (Monroeville) Men's Basketball team earned a bid and competed in the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Division II National Championship Tournament in Danville, Illinois. At the conclusion of the semester, 77 student athletes from Coastal Alabama's Monroeville and Brewton campuses were named to the Alabama Community College Conference (ACCC) Academic Honor Roll. Additionally, Women's Tennis and Softball in Monroeville earned cumulative team grade-point averages above 3.0 for both the Fall 2025 and Spring 2026 semesters, reflecting the level of academic rigor the College's student athletes maintain.

The Monroeville Campus provides as much support as it does experiences for its students as it houses specialized programs to assist students during their tenure at Coastal Alabama Community College. The federally-funded TRIO Student Support Services (SSS) program provides extensive resources for students who have a disability, are low income, and/or are first generation college students. The SSS program provides tutoring, academic advising, transfer advising, cultural enrichment, and supplemental grant aid. For those who may not qualify for SSS, the Success Coaching program provides on-campus tutoring and guidance to build strong academic habits. Programs such as these are unique in that students can easily and quickly locate someone willing to help them regardless of the stage of a program in which they are enrolled.

New to the list of program offerings for Monroeville is Heating & Air Conditioning. HVAC has quickly become a highly sought program as students seek to earn high demand, high wage careers in southwest Alabama, close to home. The Monroeville Campus offers something for everyone as it provides programs such as nursing, welding, HVAC, and the general studies courses that give students a head-start to a four-year degree.

The forecast for Coastal Alabama's Monroeville Campus is continuing to show a "promising future" as it sees steady enrollment year over year and continues to recruit new students. Coastal Alabama is the primary higher education provider in the county, and students and families continue to take advantage of all this beautiful campus has to offer.

2026 Monroeville Pickleball Classic participants

COURT IS IN SESSION

Pickleball serves up connection in Monroeville

Pickleball is known for being easy to learn, social, and accessible for a wide range of ages and fitness levels, so it's no surprise it has begun to take small towns like Monroeville by storm.

Pickleball combines elements of tennis, badminton, and ping-pong, but has its own scoring rules, paddles, balls, and court lines.

Due to popular demand, the Monroeville Pickleball Courts opened to the public in June of 2025. Located across the street from the Monroeville Community House, the pickleball courts have become a staple of many residents' routines.

The pickleball courts, which were originally tennis courts, were turned into extra parking for the community house before becoming pickleball courts. The project was funded by the City of Monroeville.

Shortly after opening the courts, the Chamber of Commerce decided to host a tournament at the new courts to encourage residents to use the courts and foster fellowship in the Monroeville community.

Dubbed the Monroeville Pickleball Classic, the tournament was held on May 16. The tournament was open to all ages and skill levels.

"The Monroeville Pickleball Classic was a wonderful event and a great way to showcase our new pickleball courts while bringing people together for a fun day of recreation," said Penelope Hines, Executive Director of the Chamber of Commerce. "We were excited to see such great participation and enthusiasm from everyone involved. Events like this help enhance quality of life in our community and encourage people to stay active."

As pickleball continues to grow nationwide, Monroeville's pickleball courts have become more than just a place to play. Whether residents come for exercise, friendly competition or conversation, Monroeville's community grows stronger, one game at a time.

Open 24/7, the department is staffed by board-certified physicians and nurses who deliver prompt, high-quality care for everything from minor injuries and illnesses to critical emergencies such as heart events and strokes, treating an average of more than 15,000 patients annually.

In addition to the Emergency Department expansion, Monroe County partnered with Enterprise Rescue to provide Emergency Medical Services beginning

The teams are dedicated to delivering safe, high-quality inpatient care tailored to a wide range of medical needs.

STRENGTHENING HEALTHCARE THROUGH RURAL INVESTMENT

The Rural Hospital Investment Program provides vital funding that helps Monroe County Hospital expand services, upgrade equipment, and improve access to care.

Contributions to the program offer donors a dollar-for-dollar Alabama state tax credit, making it a direct way to support local health-care while receiving full tax benefit. This investment strengthens MCH's ability to serve the community, supports local jobs, and helps ensure high-quality care remains close to home for Monroe County residents. For more information regarding the Rural Hospital Investment Program and how to contribute to Monroe County Hospital, please visit <https://www.revenue.alabama.gov/tax-incentives/rural-hospital-investment-tax-credit/>

PROUDLY MADE IN AMERICA

When it comes to manufacturing, nothing stands up to American made.

And when it comes to American made, Alabama is hard to beat. Georgia-Pacific's Alabama River Cellulose (ARC) mill has been proudly operating since 1978, and we're getting stronger every year.

With our $800 million transformation project underway, ARC will be the largest fluff pulp mill in the world at completion. No matter how large we grow, our priorities are the safety and wellbeing of our people, the growth of our communities, and creating sustainable operations that ensure a bright future for our region.
