MEET THE RECIPIENTS

For years, a small Muslim community in Majhawan Block, struggled for clean water. Most families are poor, earning a living through small businesses and daily labor, with many children to care for. Yet the village had only one old hand pump, unable to meet everyone's needs. Women and children often had to walk to neighboring villages, where they faced rejection and humiliation due to religious differences, leaving the community feeling forgotten and helpless. During a visit, our volunteer, Brother Jakariah, discovered this village and was deeply moved by the people's suffering. He saw the long queues at the old hand pump and the burden carried by mothers and children. Moved by the urgency of the need, he appealed on their behalf for a new borewell. After prayer and the generous support of donors, a well was drilled and dedicated to the community. The new well has transformed daily life. Families now have clean water near their homes, saving time and easing hardship. After years of rejection, the villagers have experienced love, dignity, and care. The well stands not only as a source of water but as a symbol of hope and friendship. We pray this relationship continues to grow, bringing greater peace and openness to God's love in the village.
