MEET THE RECIPIENTS

My name is Raso Majhi. This well is installed in Musahari Tole, Birta village, in the Sarlahi district of southern Nepal. Most families here have very limited financial resources, and access to clean water has been a major challenge.

Our previous wells were shallow, under 100 feet, and produced yellow, foul-smelling water due to high iron content, which affected our health. Many people were often sick, yet we had no choice but to use it. Only one or two wells provided somewhat clean water.

We learned clean water could be found at around 180 feet, but drilling that deep was too expensive for daily wage laborers. Our request to the local ward was denied due to lack of budget, and some families had no well at all.

Finally, we approached the church for help. With the community's agreement, this well was installed along the roadside for everyone to access.

Today, more than 235 people benefit from this 184-foot-deep well, which now provides clean water close to home. It has brought new hope and ended our long struggle.

On behalf of our community, we sincerely thank the Quenched team and the church for their support.

WELL REPORT

MEET THE COORDINATOR

My name is Bimlesh Mahato, and I am the coordinator of this well. I have been serving this community for many years. This is a very poor community, and before the well was installed, people struggled greatly to access water. They walked long distances, carried heavy buckets, and often did not have enough water for daily needs. I remember seeing mothers and children struggle each day—their faces showing exhaustion and worry. It was difficult to witness, and I often prayed to God for help.

By God's grace, and with the support of Quenched, we were able to install this well. Even though the land was hard and rocky, the work was completed successfully. Now, clean water is available nearby. Mothers no longer have to worry, children can play, and families have more time together. It is a joy to see the relief on their faces. This well has not only provided water but has also opened doors to share God's love. As we served the community, people became more open to hearing about Jesus and the hope He brings. Many have begun to trust in God's care.

I am thankful to God for using this simple act to bless so many lives. Seeing this community receive clean water and hope fills my heart with joy. Thank you to Quenched for making this possible.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR PARTNERSHIP!
