Sunday Reflection

As we get to the halfway point of Lent, we may be tempted to overconfidence: "The first three weeks weren't so hard. I can go a few more weeks without the things I gave up. And I've only committed a few sins; maybe I'll go to confession right before Easter." If so, it might be a good idea to look at the second reading and the Gospel.

St. Paul says that anyone who is overconfident about their lack of sin "should take care not to fall" (1 Corinthians 10:12). He compares those people to the ones Moses brought through the desert. In fact, many were punished because they were tempted to follow false gods or to complain about the food and drink God provided them. Could the same thing happen to us?

One form of overconfidence rejecting what we learned as children. We may think, "I'm old enough to decide if I should go to church" or "I can take care of myself now; I don't need God's help." If these sound familiar because you have thought that way yourself, Paul has a warning. His analogy of the Rock following the Hebrews in the desert refers to God's constant presence to the people. In the same way, God is present to us today. But just as God was not pleased with those in the desert, God may not be pleased with us if we continue to ignore the Lord.

That brings us to the Gospel. In the parable of the fig tree, the owner is not pleased—the tree has not produced any fruit.

Unlike the fig tree, God would be happy with any fruit we produce. We could be generous to the poor, we could fight for the unborn child's right to life, or we could simply teach our children how to pray.

Like the owner of the fig tree, God is patient, but we only have so much time. So when do you plan to bear fruit?

"...I shall cultivate the ground around it and fertilize it; it may bear fruit in the future."

De hecho, muchos fueron castigados porque fueron tentados a seguir dioses falsos o a quejarse de la comida y bebida que Dios les proporcionó. ¿Podría suceder lo mismo a nosotros?

Una forma de ser presumidos es rechazar lo que aprendimos de niños. Podemos pensar: "Ya tengo la edad para decidir si debo ir a la iglesia o no" o "Ahora puedo cuidar de mí mismo; no necesito la ayuda de Dios". Si esto te suena familiar porque has pensado de esa manera también, Pablo tiene una advertencia. Su analogía de la Roca que sigue a los hebreos en el desierto se refiere a la presencia constante de Dios con el pueblo. De la misma manera, Dios está presente con nosotros hoy. Pero así como Dios no estaba contento con aquellos en el desierto, puede ser que Dios no esté contento con nosotros tampoco si seguimos ignorando al Señor.

Eso nos lleva al Evangelio. En la parábola de la higuera, el dueño no está contento: el árbol no ha producido ningún fruto. A diferencia de la higuera, Dios estaría feliz con cualquier fruto que produzcamos. Podríamos ser generosos con los pobres, podríamos luchar por el derecho a la vida del niño no nacido o podríamos simplemente enseñar a nuestros hijos a orar. Al igual que el dueño de la higuera, Dios es paciente, pero solo tenemos un tiempo limitado. ¿Cuándo piensas dar fruto?

Tom Schmidt
