February 22nd, 7pm | Stan Getz at 100
featuring Jeff Rupert and Jeff Hamilton
$35 VIP Tickets, $10 General Admission

John Coltrane, saxophonist with Miles Davis once said "Every sax player would sound like Stan Getz if they could". Saxophonist Jeff Rupert assembles his quartet for an evening celebrating the impact and centennial of Stan Getz. From a young age Getz performed with Woody Herman, Norman Grantz's

Jazz at the Philharmonic, and in the 1960's he partnered with Charlie Byrd and Antonio Carlos Jobim, popularizing the Bossa Nova. From swinging solos, to bossa novas, ballads and more, Stan Getz was simply known as The Sound. Jeff Rupert has 11 albums out as a leader, and his latest release Sea Spell was in the top ten of the national jazz charts, and his 2021 release the Ripple was the #5 jazz album of the year. On Rupert, Jazz Times opines, "Every once in a while, an album comes along that reminds us how the saxophone should sound". In a world of modern jazz, Rupert relies on the lyrical approach of Lester Young, and Stan Getz, his first musical heroes. "I just want to tell a little story on the horn", opines Rupert.

Joining Jeff's regularly working quartet for this event will be drum sensation Jeff Hamilton, known for his work with Woody Herman, Oscar Peterson, Ray Brown, Diana Krall and his own band, the Jeff Hamilton Trio, and the Clayton-Hamilton Jazz Orchestra. Richard Drexler and Charlie Silva round out Jeff's quartet on piano and bass.
