Cover Design or Artwork by
VALERIA FAVOCCIA

From Nebula and Hugo Award–winning writer Charlie Jane Anders (New Mutants, Lessons in Magic and Disaster) and artist Isaac Sánchez González (TMNT, Godzilla) comes an extremely CLASSIFIED mission.

A starship graveyard on the moon. A captain haunted by failure. A mission that could change the future of the Federation...or end it entirely.

Raffi Musiker takes command of the U.S.S. Endeavour—and is immediately handed a classified directive from Starfleet. Follow the guidance of a powerful, untested A.I., built from mysterious technology recovered in the Epsilon Corridor, that can predict threats before they happen.

But these missions aren't exploration—they're a gamble. As systems fail, pressure mounts, and missions spiral out of control, Raffi must decide who to trust: her crew...or the machine guiding them.

Because some discoveries are better left buried.

And some warnings come too late.

12-Foot Skeleton #1 Cover A Ben Templesmith

Written by TIM SEELEY and AARON CAMPBELL;
Illustrated by BEN TEMPLESMITH;
Colorist BEN TEMPLESMITH;

This might be Lola and Jimmy's last Halloween. Not because they're aging out at 12-years-old...there's a 12-foot-tall lawn skeleton on a rampage in their neighborhood! Lola is a triple threat of social suicide: goth girl, new kid, and outspoken feminist. Meanwhile, Jimmy is a bookish, quiet, bullied kid trying to enjoy his favorite holiday between cancer treatments. When Lola discovers she might have a much stronger connection with the malevolent force inhabiting the skeleton than she could ever imagine possible, it's up to Jimmy to inspire them to face certain danger and embrace the future rather than run from their traumatic pasts. Aaron Campbell (Hellblazer), Tim Seeley (Inglorious X-Force), and Ben Templesmith (30 Days of Night) present a Halloween story with the heart and soul of a classic Spielberg film alongside all the spills, chills, and horrifying thrills of everyone's favorite 1980s slasher movies!

Hotel and Farm

Written by BEN KATCHOR

From award-winning cartoonist and author of The Dairy Restaurant, Real Estate Photographer, and The Jew of New York: a new collection of graphic narratives preserved in Ben Katchor's timeless illustrations.

Late one night, in an Echoic City basement cafeteria, a group of story-addicts linger after dinner to share 140 tales that examine the mysteries and idiosyncrasies of hotel culture and agriculture. The hotel stories explore the erotic quality of miniature shampoo containers, the pleasures of life between international time zones, the dangers of glossy magazines, and the hotel lobby as a breeding ground for petty crime. The agriculture stories detail the little-known practice of twice-killing meat, the cultivation and sale of exotic produce, the white-washing of trees, and the arrangement of fruit as an art form. With Ben Katchor's signature style and wit, the stories in Hotel and Farm weave together the joys and woes of both industries into one unprecedented and unerring graphic novel.

With Ben Katchor's trademark wit, this timeless collection brings together two worlds!

INTERIOR SPREADS FROM Hotel and Farm

HOTEL & FARM

Dear Comics Retailers and Fans,

I began making comics back in the days of printed weekly newspapers where I produced an ongoing and seemingly endless stream of text-image stories—each began and ended within 8 to 10 panels. I felt that it would be asking too much of my readers to keep track of a continuing plot between weekly installments and so I provided a complete short story each week. With this format, no one felt out of the narrative loop.

Who were these story addicts, who returned to the pages of their local newspaper each week over the years to read my strips? Many of them were, no doubt, perusing the real estate or movie ads and stumbled upon my strip by accident. As their fingers became stained with ink through the turning of those cheap newsprint pages, they became addicted to a weekly fix of text and image.

HOTEL & FARM offers a selection of such stories. In this case alternating between tales of hotel culture and agriculture. As you'll see, my fictional storytellers are driven by sheer desperation to earn a few slices of dry sausage. Through their desperation, they tap unrealized founts of narrative and literary invention. I, myself, was driven to produce one and sometimes two strips each week as a way of earning a living.

Over the years, I tried get a sense of my audience and discovered this one common thread. Readers often mentioned that they didn't read comics nor have any interest in the form, but, for some reason, enjoyed reading my comics. So, please put your feelings and taste in comics aside and take a look at my latest book. I hope you'll enjoy it.

He claims the spectacle proves that in order to save humanity she must marry him.

Before Persephone can even consider this cursed deal, Hera steps forward with a different solution: She will offer herself to Kronos in order to gain access to old Tartarus, wherein they'll be able to destroy the titan, save their captured friends, and restore Persephone's control over spring. Though the plan is risky, the gods agree it is the only path, and watch as the two goddesses descend into the depths to confront Kronos.

Pepper

Written by KARL STEVENS

A standalone sequel to the popular graphic memoir, Penny, this vivid graphic novel centers on housecat heroine Penny's relationship with her sister, Pepper—and the delicately solipsistic inner world they share with each other.

As she is prone to do, Penny the housecat spends her days lazing around the apartment and musing philosophically. However, her peace is rudely disturbed when she is forced to contend with the existence of her little sister, Pepper.

What follows is one part wry, immaculately watercolored cat gags, one part visionquest. Here, acclaimed graphic novelist Karl Stevens blends the quotidian life of a housecat with an epicly psychedelic journey of self-discovery and the profound art of making peace with yourself.

No Concessions!

Written by NATHAN GELGUD

Your favorite gang of militant movie lovers are back for an all-new season of hijinks and takeovers from their small town single screen cinema.

The Reel Politik guerillas discuss how to be an effective revolutionary while fighting the all-consuming evils of corporate Hollywood. Meditate! Fight your inner urge to binge watch! Engage in a cinema fast to truly appreciate the oeuvre of an auteur! Realism is bourgeois!

With his trademark slapstick zingers, Gelgud lovingly skewers leftist radical politics while simultaneously illustrating how late stage capitalism has made ethical decision making fraught with compromise. At once a celebration of what makes Hollywood and independent local cinema great and a call to arms to protect it.

Silent Jenny

Written by MATHIEU BABLET;
Illustrated by MATHIEU BABLET

In a not-too-distant future, climate change continues to ravage the planet, and the disappearance of insects has led to the end of pollination, rendering vast areas of land infertile. A survival dynamic has emerged—mobile islands called “monads” have formed, and people strive to help each other; each group with its own customs, traditions, and ways of life.

Created by multiple-award winning comics wonderkind Mathieu Bablet, Silent Jenny is, at its heart, a “world-building book”—inventing vehicles, character factions, landscapes, and crafting this universe down to the smallest detail to make it as tangible as possible. An optimistic story that presents solutions to climate change—no eco-anxiety, just hope and innovation.

Themes of alienation, routine, freedom, and the trappings of modern life turn this textless, nonlinear, and atmospheric graphic novel into an unsettling contemplation of the trappings we choose to surround ourselves with.

The Vanishing of Lake Peigneur: A Graphic Novel Based on a True Story

Written by ALLAN WOLF;
Illustrated by JOSE PIMIENTA

Home to catfish and crawdads, shrimp and spoonbills, even a gator or two, Lake Peigneur—pronounced “your pain,” only backward—bustles also with human life. Each day, the bean-shaped freshwater lake and its shores hum with folks going about their work: a devoted gardener’s apprentice and his dogs, fishermen, oilmen drilling at Well P-20, and the fifty-one miners employed by the Diamond Crystal Salt Mines. For most, November 20, 1980, began as “just another day on the lake.” But as the lake itself reflects, humans had, over time, left behind a honeycomb of salt highways deep beneath its surface, and water and salt mix all too well.

Something Is Killing the Children: Hope Is a Knife

A Novel

Written by JAMES TYNION IV
and KIERSTEN WHITE

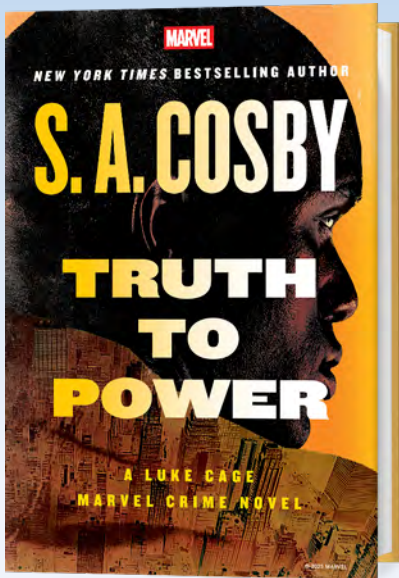

Based on the internationally bestselling comic series, with millions of copies in print, the first full-length novel from the terrifying world of Something Is Killing the Children!

As a Black Mask, Erica Slaughter has a very straightforward job: find the monster, kill the monster, then do it all again. But when she arrives in Badwater, Idaho, nothing is simple. She can't determine whether the horrific killer of a twelve-year-old was a bear, a person, or something much worse. Complicating matters is the charismatic doomsday preacher who is quickly leading the small town to the verge of hysteria. If Erica wants to save the surviving children, she has to figure out which kid's fears might have summoned a monster—and fast. Erica must get to the truth before the Order and the town come to the same conclusion: to stop the monster, you have to kill the girl.

Hope Is a Knife is a chilling, original tale in SIKTC lore, where monsters are real and only the hunters of the Order of St. George are equipped to challenge them. Whether or not you've already devoured the Eisner Award-winning comics, this stand-alone vision of supernatural horror is a thrill ride of the highest order.

Written by MATT SINGER

A celebration of a generation of iconic comedies—the raunchy, blockbuster “Frat Pack” films of the early 2000s—and a no-holds-barred look at their rise and fall in Hollywood, the effects of which can still be felt in the fractured media landscape of today

The Miniature Book of Ork Quotes

Written by DK

“We iz gonna stomp da ooniverse flat an’ kill anyfing dat fights back. We iz gonna do dis ’coz we’z Orks, an’ we woz made ta fight an’ win!”

—Grand Warlord Ghazghkull Mag Uruk Thraka

Worlds shake beneath iron-shod boots, engines roar across horizons, and the skies darken with dust thrown up by the passage of their endless numbers—an avalanche of muscle, tusks, blades, and guns.

Orks are single-minded in their desire for war, undoubtedly brutal, but also cunning. This collection of quotes provides an insight into the Ork psyche—utterly anarchic, savagely simplistic, and unremittingly violent.
