Windows Server 2016 End of Support

Microsoft has confirmed that Windows Server 2016 will reach End of Life on 12 January 2027. While this may feel some way off, organisations running Server 2016 should begin planning now to avoid unnecessary risk and last-minute upgrade pressure.

Once support ends, Microsoft will no longer provide security updates, bug fixes, technical support or future improvements. Continuing to run unsupported infrastructure can increase cyber security risk, create compliance challenges, and lead to compatibility issues with newer applications and services.

If your organisation is currently using Windows Server 2016, please get in touch to start planning next steps.

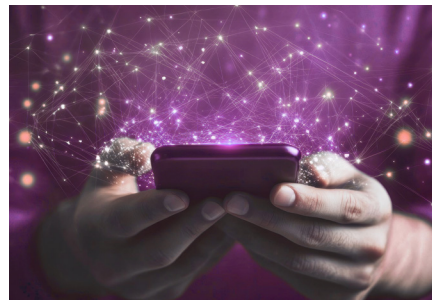

The countdown is officially on for the analogue switch-off

Across the UK the old copper phone network that many businesses still rely on every day is due to be switched off before 31st January 2027.

Within the next 12 months, all systems that still use an analogue phone line need to be replaced with a digital service.

That means a cloud hosted phone system delivered over fibre broadband, offering clearer calls, more flexibility and a setup built for modern working.

Mobile technology is essential to modern business, keeping teams connected, productive, and responsive wherever they work.

QUICK TIP OF THE MONTH

If an email looks suspicious, it probably is. Check the sender's address carefully, as scammers often use near-identical domains to trick you. Never click links or download attachments you weren't expecting. When in doubt, verify directly with the sender.
