When you think about it, a Halloween theme is a natural fit for a golf tournament. This is a sport, after all, that's about shotguns, bogeys, hooks and slices.

Fortunately for Quantum House, its golf-loving supporters are not easily spooked.

Oh, ha ha ha.

They turned out in force for the organization's annual "Golf and Goblins" tournament, which took place Oct. 24 at the Palm Beach Par 3 Golf Course.

The Halloween-inspired tournament began with breakfast, after which golfers — many in costume — hit the greens for a morning of oceanside golf.

"It's inspiring to see golfers show up ready to have fun and give back at the same time," said Phil Engman, Golf and Goblins event chairman. "Everyone's out here enjoying the sunshine, the costumes and the camaraderie — all while helping families who are facing some of life's toughest challenges."

After golf, guests moved to the clubhouse's Al Fresco restaurant for a raffle, costume contest and tournament awards luncheon.

Top honors went to Shannon Ball, Brad Ball, Adrien Ball and Mark Ball. Taking second place were Anthony Giuffrida, Steve Schults, Blair Langstroth and Neil Sullivan. Meredith Schuler, Alison Percy, Matt Wilson and Jennie Wilson came in third.

"Golf and Goblins is an opportunity to make a difference while enjoying a spectacular course," said Greg Quattlebaum, president and CEO of Quantum House. "Every swing helps families navigating medical challenges. It's a day filled with fun, philanthropy and purpose."

The tournament supports Quantum House's mission to provide a "home away from home" for families facing medical crises while their children receive treatment.

"Beyond a place to stay, Quantum House offers meals, community connections and a compassionate environment for those facing some of life's toughest moments," Quattlebaum said. "Events like this ensure we can continue to serve families when they need it most."

On the campus of St. Mary's Medical Center, Quantum House is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit that relies solely on the generosity of the community to its mission to provide accommodations to the families of children receiving medical treatment. As the only facility of its kind between Orlando and Fort Lauderdale, Quantum House serves local residents as well as people from across the country and around the world, ensuring that families — regardless of background — have a place to call home during difficult times.
