

Garry Thompson

Senior Advisor

Garry Thompson spent 30 years in environments where leadership failure is not a metaphor. As a U.S. Army Colonel and Apache helicopter pilot, he led organizations in combat and high-stakes training environments — including battalion-level command responsible for over one million aircraft movements per year — before turning that experience toward building leaders in the private sector.

Before Teamalytics, Garry served as Commandant of the Army Warrant Officer Career College, where he led the design and delivery of leadership development programs for Army Warrant Officers across the country. He also served as Chief of Current Operations aboard the National Airborne Operations Center, ensuring continuity of command for national-level leadership.

At Teamalytics, Garry works with senior leaders and their teams in private equity portfolio companies and private organizations — helping them identify the behavioral constraints that limit execution, build shared commitments that create real accountability, and develop the leadership discipline that holds when the environment gets hard.

Garry and his wife, Mary, live in [location — confirm].

EDUCATION

PhD, Human Capital Development,
The University of Southern Mississippi

MS, U.S. Naval War College

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- Retired U.S. Army Colonel; Apache helicopter pilot with 30+ years of service including combat command
- Commandant, Army Warrant Officer Career College, responsible for leadership development of Army Warrant Officers nationally
- Chief of Current Operations, National Airborne Operations Center, continuity of command for national-level leadership