Reflection on the 30th Sunday of Ordinary Time

Here is an excerpt from an article titled: “The 30th Sunday of Ordinary Time Year C, Sunday October 26, 2025” found on the “Young Catholics” website—young-catholics.com:

The readings for the 30th Sunday in Ordinary Time Year C remind us of the importance of humility, trust in God, and faithfulness in trials. Jesus contrasts a self-righteous Pharisee with a humble tax collector to show that God values sincerity over outward appearances. Sirach tells us that God listens to the cries of the poor and oppressed. Paul, despite being abandoned, remains faithful and trusts in God's strength. These readings challenge us to examine our own hearts and attitudes before God.

Humility Leads to Justification

The Gospel reading for the 30th Sunday in Ordinary Time Year C teaches that humility is necessary to be right with God.
Jesus tells a parable about a Pharisee and a tax collector. The Pharisee stands confidently, thanking God that he is better than others. He lists his good deeds, believing they make him righteous. The tax collector, however, stands at a distance, unwilling to lift his eyes. He simply prays for mercy. Jesus says it is the tax collector who goes home justified.

This challenges how people often see holiness. The Pharisee follows the law and does good works, but his pride separates him from God. The tax collector, despite his sins, knows he needs God's mercy. He does not try to prove his worth. He simply asks for forgiveness.

The lesson is clear. No one earns God's favor through good deeds alone. It is not about comparing ourselves to others or thinking we are better. It is about recognizing our need for God and trusting in His mercy. The Pharisee looked good on the outside but was full of pride. The tax collector was honest about his sins and humbled himself. Jesus says that is the kind of person God lifts up.

God Hears the Humble

The first reading from Sirach in the 30th Sunday in Ordinary Time Year C reminds us that God listens to those who are humble. He does not favor the rich or powerful over the poor. He hears the cries of those who are in need, especially those who have no one else to help them. This is a comfort to anyone who feels forgotten or ignored. The world often gives attention to those with status, money, or influence. But God sees things differently. He values sincerity, honesty, and humility. He does not judge based on outward success but on the attitude of the soul.

This reading also reminds us to be like God in how we treat others. Do we listen to those who are struggling? Do we stand up for the oppressed? If God hears their cries, we should too. He calls us to show kindness and fairness to everyone, not just to those who can benefit us in some way.

Strength in Trials

In the second reading for the 30th Sunday in Ordinary Time Year C, Paul speaks about his struggles. He has stayed faithful to his mission even when others abandoned him. He knows that God is with him and will bring him safely into His kingdom. Paul's words show that faith does not mean life will be easy. He faced many hardships, yet he never gave up. He trusted that God would give him strength. Even when people turned away from him, he knew he was not alone.

This is an important message for anyone facing difficulties. Life is full of challenges, and sometimes we feel like we are standing alone. But God remains with us. He gives us the courage to keep going. Like Paul, we are called to stay faithful, knowing that God will lead us through whatever we face.
