

Homecoming?

January 24th is homecoming week at Green River High School. Events/activities will include posters designed by each class, basketball games, the announcement of homecoming royalty and an alumni basketball game. Each class designed posters that will be displayed at the basketball games. The classes will be competing against each other with their posters and they will announce the poster winner at the boys varsity basketball game. 2nd, 3rd, and 1st place posters will earn points for their class. Both the boys and girls basketball teams will be competing against Monticello High School. Our principal will be announcing royalty at the homecoming dance. Anyone that has graduated from Green River High school will be eligible to compete in the alumni game, which will take place on Friday at 7:00 PM.

By: Rosa Barragan

Blood Drive At GRHS

Green River High School had its annual blood drive this year. We have had one every year in January for 20 years. Green River and other communities around the Utah area are all very good at supporting the blood drive. The general information about the blood drive you need to know is ages 16-18 can donate with parents permission, and anyone over 18 can donate. You can check eligibility to see if a medication you take or anything else could be a deferral for you. Donations can go toward many good causes. For example, did you know that babies in the NICU can benefit from just a couple tablespoons of blood?

By: Kylie Gollaher

Album Cover

White Ferrari By Frank Ocean

White Ferrari is such a beautiful song. Not only is it relatable, but it can teach you so much. Not only is love fading, ending, and two people being on two different paths, but also about being a positive person without restraints. The line "I'm sure we're taller in another dimension." Is not only about his partner not seeing the world how he does, but it can be a reminder that there's so much out there and we don't even know it. It's just just a reminder to think purely. Just because others think less of these possibilities, you yourself do not have to stop having a positive world view. The "it's just a skull" line alone is so beautiful in the way that the only thing holding us back is our minds preventing us from moving forward and creating our own outcomes. One of my favorite lines he says is "I care for you still and I will forever that was my part of the deal we got so familiar." The way the music is laid out is just so appealing

By: Rolando Anguiano

AG Chicken Coops

This year, during our ag systems I and ag systems II class, we had plans to build chicken coops and team up with Ms Herrera's marketing class to sell these chicken coops to the local community, or anyone who wants to buy one. Both classes started off by getting into groups and making sketches of the chicken coops they thought would look the best. We also made a presentation about the chicken coops, which had a supply list and the cost of all the materials needed to build them. After we did that, we all presented our chicken coops to the marketing class, and they picked the two chicken coops they liked the best. After this, we came back to class, brainstormed how to change some features, and moved something things around to make the chicken coop the best we could. We talked to the marketing class a little more about the final prices of all the material to build the chicken coops and came up with a total price that we are going to sell the coops for. We plan to get supplies and to begin working on the chicken coops so that we can have them ready to go by the time spring arrives. This way, when people buy their chickens, there will be some chicken coops ready to go that don't have to be put together

By Cristian Mendoza

Jason Hernandez's 1000th career point

The Green River Pirates boys basketball team opened up region play, heading to Whitehorse. They earned a dominant win over the Raiders. The night was made even more memorable when senior Jason Hernandez reached a significant career achievement, scoring his 1,000th career point for Green River High School.

Head coach Greg Parsons shared his pride following Jason's achievement. "I'm super proud of Jason for reaching this milestone in his career. It is a true statement of the work ethic that he has," Parsons said. "He is constantly working on his game to improve himself and his teammates. Jason is like another coach out on the floor. He pushes his teammates to get better every day. If I could, I'd give him my keys so he could be the one to lock up every night! Congratulations, Jason!"

Jason has been playing at the varsity level since his freshman year. Each year, he has continued to improve and get better. He is now looking to lead Green River to something greater than just 1000 points and, hopefully, compete for a championship at the state tournament.

By Jason Hernandez

Weather

We are starting the new year off cold. Close to the end of January there is going to be a cold front. This cold front is mostly hitting the southern and eastern side of the U.S., with temperatures dropping below 0 even reaching -20/-40 degrees outside. If you are planning to go outside make sure you stay warm! And be safe.

Dominick Jarvis

