

Understanding the world

Understanding the World helps children make sense of their physical and social environment. Through hands-on experiences, exploration, and discussion, children learn about people, communities, nature, and the world around them.

Activities such as observing changes in the seasons, caring for living things, exploring technology, and learning about different cultures and traditions encourage curiosity and respect for others.

This area of learning supports children in developing knowledge, critical thinking skills, and an early understanding of how the world works.
