From FR. C.P.:

On this second Sunday of Lent, we meditate upon the transfiguration of Jesus. The disciples climb up the mountain. This is already significant of something in their spiritual journey. The mountain top is where God's encounter takes place in the bible. But for that encounter to take place, proper disposition is required. Many things are to be left at the foot of the mountain. What happens on mountain top is a glimpse of the future glory that will be attained by Jesus, after his passion and death. So, there is a foreshadow of the suffering and death after which there will be resurrection. On mountain top nothing is added to the essence of Jesus Christ. He is the same yesterday, today and forever. But his dazzling white appearance is for the disciples to know that he is no ordinary human, but divine. May we recognize our divine master in our daily lives, in the ordinariness of our daily existence.

Catholic Living:

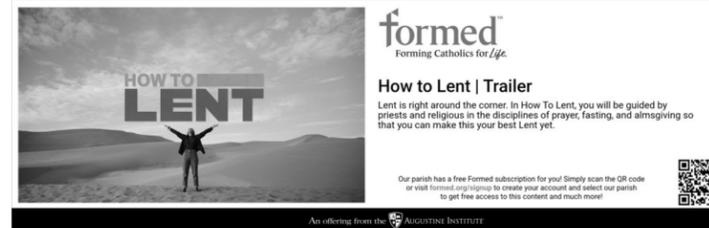

If giving, and receiving the fruits of God's intimate love for all people were our main concern, peace would be near. Little of this peace is visible in our world, but wherever and whenever people leave the house of fear and start to share their gifts in the house of love, true mission occurs, and true peacemaking begins.
 Reflection Question: How might my willingness to share my gifts—and receive those of others—become a source of peace in my relationships or community?
 "Let your gentleness be known to everyone. The Lord is near. Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus."
 Philippians 4: 5-7
Henri Nouwen Daily Meditation
