Sweet Success

Five strategies to drive dessert sales

Brand Names Resonate

Go branded. When ordering desserts, consumers often gravitate toward what's familiar. But brand trust is increasingly becoming a high priority for today's consumers. Offering desserts with high-quality ingredients made by well-known and trusted brands enables operators to create a craveable treat and increase profit margins.

90%

of consumers surveyed said they were willing to pay more for something when it comes from a brand they trust.

- Mile High Peanut Butter Explosion w/ Reese's - #121238
- Chocolate Peanut Butter Pie w/ Reese's - #970404
- Oreo Cookie Bash - #970415
- Ghiradelli Brownie Mix - #120640
- Nutella Piping Bag - #303536

Raise the Bar

Consumers know that better ingredients mean better-tasting foods. To deliver on that whenever possible, operators can use premium ingredients. Not only are consumers interested in premium, but they're also willing to pay more for it. According to Datassential's March 2023 Dessert Keynote report, 28% of consumers say they are willing to splurge on desserts.

Sippable Sweets

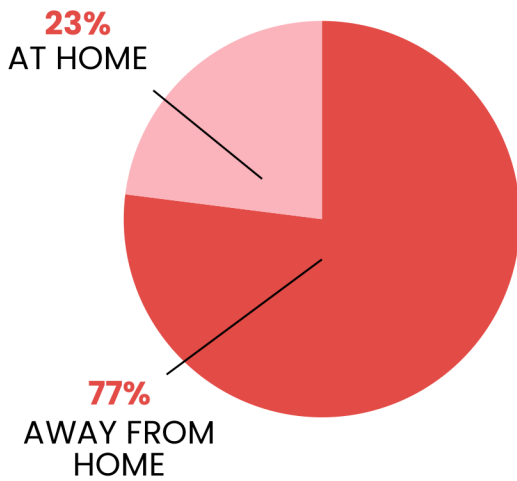

After-dinner beverages are also components of your dessert menu. The popularity of hot and cold coffee beverages, teas, and smoothies has created the need for more restaurants to expand their beverage selections and offerings of dessert wines, liqueurs and cordials. Specialty dessert beverages are also very popular. Keep in mind that this option will appeal to the customer who may pass on a rich, decadent dessert. Specialty coffees and teas, and after-dinner cordials or liqueurs can also build dessert sales. Specialty coffees can be enhanced with a variety of alcoholic and nonalcoholic ingredients.

VOLUME DRIVER

According to Datassentials' recent Dessert's Sweet Spot Keynote Report, dessert beverages rank in the top three best-selling desserts at 45% of operators.

Datassential asked consumers:
Where did you have your last dessert?

OPPORTUNITY ALERT: Grab & Go

Desserts aren't just for dining in, and snacking on a sundae or taking a work break with a brownie is becoming more and more common as many consumers report eating their last dessert as a snack. Capitalize on that snacking tendency by adding grab-and-go sweets by checkouts or by adding take home dessert options to the menu.

Focus on Food Trends

Mini Desserts

Bite-size and mini desserts are great for sharing and experiencing new flavor combinations. The petite option is also great for guests that only want a little taste of something sweet after their main meal. Make it a dessert flight for guests who like to try a little bit of everything!

- Mini Bundt Cakes - #692310
- Mini Cannoli Shells - #174860
- Baby Cakes - #692310

Nostalgic

Classic, familiar flavors continue to be popular with a large section of consumers. Flavors like s'mores, cookies, cream, and peanut butter and jelly are both timeless and trendy.

- Chocolate Chip Cookie Lava - #121183
- Chocolate Filled Churros - #942599
- Funnel Cake Fries - #932513
- Marshmallow Cookie Dough Cake - #121235

DRIVER

While 57% of all consumers are interested in nostalgic desserts, 62% of Gen Z is, making them a prime target audience for throwback treats.

Coffee Miso Caramel Brownies

Savory Desserts

Vegetables, herbs, non traditional warming spices, and even salt all bring a savory touch to sweet desserts . Fine dining often has more room to experiment, but savory flavors are now growing thanks to savory and sweet flavor heroes like salted caramel.

- Salted Caramel Vanilla Crunch Cake - #950523

Deconstructed Classics

Deconstructed desserts are exactly what they sound like: desserts that have the traditional ingredients but combined in a different way and sometimes in a different form.

- Cannoli Chips- #112091
- Cannoli Cream - #112029

Deconstructed Chocolate Chip Cannoli Cups

Global & Indulgent

Globally inspired flavors are among the biggest gainers on dessert menus in the past year.

- Limoncello Flutes - #682634
- Creme Brulee in Ramekin - #684512
- Coppa Mascarpone - #683815
