

Material considerations – common issues arising in casework New course date to be published

Our bite-size courses are half-day sessions delivered on Microsoft Teams from 9:30 to 12:00.

Navigating the complexities of planning law and practice can be challenging, but getting it right is essential to uphold the integrity of the planning system as a whole. These short courses are designed specifically for local authority professionals, providing clear, practical insights into key planning principles, topic based issues and enforcement powers.

Through real world case studies and expert-led discussions, participants will gain the knowledge and confidence to handle difficult issues effectively. Whether you're new to development management or enforcement, these courses will equip you with the tools to make informed, legally sound decisions in your role.

When assessing an application for planning permission or responding to planning or enforcement appeals where deemed application is made, it is often the "other material considerations" that cause confusion. This bitesize training session considers the principles established by the courts and explores how decision-makers approach subjects like fallback, human rights and the public sector equality duty. A practical and engaging session aimed at professional development of development management and enforcement officers.
