

Dear future host family, I am excited for the opportunity to be apart of a new family and experience life in Denmark.

I describe myself as polite, kind, and open-minded. I believe that being nice to everyone you meet, no matter what, is the best way to treat people. I am happy, and always ready to help others. I like to go for walks to stay active and would be open to joining new sports. I would also be open to joining debating, public speaking or something new during my time!

I live in Qld, Australia, and am an only child. Most of the time I live with my mum and my two dogs, Fluffy and Pandora, in Brisbane. However some weekends I go to my dad's, at the Gold Coast, whom which I live with my dad, his partner Keryn, and their dog Jax. I love Queensland as it is often very hot, reaching 30-40 degrees celcius in the summer. However, as I write this it is currently winter and I am freezing in the 20 degree weather. I also live within an hour of the beach at Brisbane and can walk there when I am at my dads. I am very thankful for that as I love the beach, spending most of my childhood there!

My family and friends often say that I am responsible and kind, and that they know that they can count on me for support no matter what. In my free time I enjoy staying active by going for long walks along the river or the beach, or joining in on random sports with my friends. Spending time with my family and friends is highly important to me. We bake, cook, travel, and talk together. I really enjoy our conversations, no matter if there really deep or if we are just having fun.

When I grow up I would like to study international relations, focusing on healthcare, in Europe. My goal is to travel the world and fight for better healthcare across the world, helping with diseases. Moreover I would also love to fight for womens rights.

I am also dedicated to my studies and learning new things, currently I am also completing university level study. During my stay I would love to experience the aspects of Danish culture, especially through Christmas and new years. I am excited to go to 7/11 and try faxe kondi, saltlakrids as well as smørrebrød and pølser. Moreover, I really want to just explore the streets of Denmark.

I would love to join in on family activities such as movie nights or shared meals. It would be amazing if I could also bake and cook for you, creating dishes from Australia. I also just love baking as it is one of my hobbies, and would love to share my recipes and learn Danish recipes.

I would be a great member for your family because of my flexibility, positivity, and enthusiasm to contribute. I commit to being a helpful, respectful and open-minded guest who will respect your home and values.

Thank you again for considering me. I look forward to the possibility of becoming a part of your family, best wishes, Charlotte Keis.

Hej, I'm Phil, Charlotte's dad.

I know Charlotte is incredibly excited about spending a semester in Denmark. The opportunity to immerse herself in another culture and experience a real European winter will be something she'll never forget.

Charlotte loves to travel and has visited the UK several times to spend time with her grandma in North Wales. Her travel bug is taking her overseas again this year, with trips to the UK in August and China in September.

Through her work in fast food and retail, Charlotte has developed great people skills and enjoys meeting and helping others. She loves learning new skills, embracing new experiences, and making the most of every opportunity.

Like most teenagers, she enjoys her phone and also appreciates having some time and space to herself. We have a dog at home, and Charlotte absolutely loves animals, so a home with pets would be a wonderful fit for her.

Charlotte takes her studies seriously and works hard at school. She's currently considering a future career in either medicine or international relations—a bit of a contrast, but she has plenty of time to decide!

We know this exchange will be an incredible experience for Charlotte, and we're grateful to the family who welcomes her into their home. We hope she'll become part of your family during her stay and create memories and friendships that will last a lifetime.

If you've any questions, please What's App me on +61 434 564 237. I'm sure a family would love to have Charlotte in their home.

Regards
Phil Royle — Dad
