

My notes from Sunday's message continued...

Don't become so focused on what God did in their days that you miss what God is doing in ours.

WALKING with the SPIRIT

AUGUST 23, 2026 ~ ERIC WAYMAN
Wake-Up Call

ACTS 13:13-52

With familiarity, something that was intended to wake us up can become something we sleep through.

Don't become so familiar with the stories that you miss what they're pointing to.

The gospel isn't merely history to be studied. It's an ongoing reality that demands a response.

God, what are You doing here?

How are You inviting me to join You?

What are you going to do with Jesus?

This Study Guide is designed to help you apply Sunday's message. Join a Life Group and do this study together!

1. What's one part of your normal routine you'd really notice if it suddenly disappeared?
2. This week's message was Wake-Up Call. Let's read Acts 13:32-41 together. Paul reminds his listeners that God is still at work and warns them not to miss what He is doing. Was there a part of the message that stood out to you or that God called your attention to?
3. Read Acts 13:26-30. Paul connects what God had done in the past with what He was doing through Jesus in their present. What do you notice about God's faithfulness throughout this passage?
4. Read John 5:17-20. Jesus describes His Father as working in the world and Himself as joining in that work. God has given us His Spirit so that we also can join Him in His work. How do we do this?
5. The message challenged us not to become so familiar with what God did in the past that we miss what He is doing now. Where in your life have you found yourself going through the motions or being more of an observer than a participant in God's work?
6. This week, choose one place you regularly spend time — your home, workplace, school, or neighborhood. Each day, pause and ask, "God, what are You doing here, and how are You inviting me to join You?" What might help you remember to do that?
7. As you think about what God may be doing in your life right now, where do you most need His help, guidance, or encouragement? How can we pray for you personally this week?
