

A large pile of various food items, including canned goods, boxes of snacks like Lance crackers, and bags of chips, illustrating the concept of food security.

A photograph showing a large, cluttered pile of household supplies. In the foreground, there are several large rolls of toilet paper, some with decorative patterns. Next to them are boxes of tissues, including one labeled 'Premium'. Behind these are various bottles of cleaning products, such as dish soap and all-purpose cleaners. To the right, there are more boxes of tissues and a brown paper bag. The background is filled with more of these items, creating a sense of overwhelming accumulation. The image is framed by a black border.
