

What a back-to-base alarm system can do for you!

How Does a Security System Work?

Security systems are reliable, flexible and easy to use. They consist of electronic devices, strategically placed throughout your business to monitor for intrusion, fire, plant alarms, etc. Your alarm system includes internal and external sirens to alert the intruder and passers-by of the foiled break-in attempt.

You can tailor your alarm response eg notify your on call person for a plant, fridge alarm or power fail, or call a guard or staff for burglary etc.

Your alarm system can use your existing phone line, mobile network or internet to communicate.

Your alarm system can do far more than just monitor burglary, you can also monitor:

- Smoke, Heat & Flame detectors
- Temperature alarms eg refrigeration & climate control
- Plant alarms – monitor your plant through your security system
- Integrate your fire, camera, air-con & lighting systems to your security system
- Audit trail – know when staff and contractors access out of hours
- Have your system auto arm if you forget!

Won't Insurance cover the cost?

Although your insurance may partly or fully cover the cost of replacing stolen or damaged goods, the time it takes a business to work through the process of starting again after a major break-in can in itself be a reason to have a back-to-base alarm system. Insurance will also never be able to replace unique or valuable items or equipment. It may even be possible to negotiate lower premiums with your insurance company if you have a security system installed. Security systems are not a substitute for adequate insurance or care.
