Walking Tours

Each tour is a self-guided walking tour that highlights the history and architecture of the Boulder City Historic District. The tours are designed to allow visitors to explore the district at their own pace and to learn about the significance of the buildings and structures they encounter.

1. Bureau of Reclamation Residential Area: This tour focuses on the housing developments built by the Bureau of Reclamation for its employees. Visitors will learn about the history of the development and the architectural styles used.
2. Power Operator's Residential Area: This tour explores the homes built for the power operators who worked at the Boulder Dam (now Hoover Dam). Visitors will learn about the living conditions of the operators and the history of the area.
3. Commercial District: This tour highlights the commercial buildings that were essential to the economy of Boulder City. Visitors will learn about the history of the businesses and the role they played in the community.
4. Parks and Public Buildings: This tour focuses on the parks and public buildings in the district. Visitors will learn about the history of these spaces and their role in the community.
5. Sie Companito's Residential Area: This tour explores the homes built by the Companito family, who were early settlers in Boulder City. Visitors will learn about the history of the family and the architectural style of the homes.

All tours are designed to be accessible to individuals of all abilities and are equipped with accessible facilities and amenities.
