Nominations for ASN's Lifetime Achievement Award

ASN invites members to nominate individuals whose careers reflect exceptional dedication and enduring contributions to the field of neuroimaging for the Lifetime Achievement Award. This distinguished honor recognizes leaders who have made a significant and lasting impact on the neuroimaging subspecialty while demonstrating meaningful service to ASN.

Nominations must include a detailed description of the nominee's achievements, contributions to neuroimaging, and service to the Society, and must be submitted using the official nomination form.

To encourage consideration of outstanding candidates over multiple years, nominations will remain active and be reviewed for the three award cycles following submission. Please note that self-nominations are not accepted.

Help us recognize those whose careers have advanced the field and inspired future generations of neuroimaging professionals. Make a nomination.

Congratulations, Dr. Derrick Cheng

The American Society of Neuroimaging is pleased to announce that Dr. Derrick Cheng has successfully passed the RPNI Examination. This accomplishment reflects a strong commitment to excellence in neurovascular interpretation and continued advancement in clinical neuroimaging practice.

Please join us in celebrating Dr. Cheng's achievement and dedication to elevating standards in the field.

Call for ASN Annual Meeting Social Media Ambassadors

The American Society of Neuroimaging (ASN) is seeking two Social Media Ambassadors to help promote the ASN Annual Meeting.

Selected volunteers will work with the ASN Social Media Committee and Executive Office to:

- Review the Annual Meeting program.
- Develop brief, educational posts highlighting individual speakers and sessions.

- Create program-specific content that increases awareness, engagement, and outreach.
- Help showcase the educational value and diversity of the Annual Meeting program.

The anticipated commitment is approximately two to three hours per month. Term ends in January. Ideal applicants should be familiar with social media and comfortable developing clear, engaging professional content. Ambassadors will not be responsible for publishing posts or managing ASN's official social media accounts. Interested? Submit application.
