Positive steps forward for Martin!

This month, with support from Heather, Martin enjoyed time at golf and his local Men's Shed - both chosen to help build his independence, confidence, and social engagement.

By giving Martin space to enjoy activities at his own pace, he stayed focused, expressed pride in his woodwork, and even celebrated getting a par in golf!

Amazing progress, Martin - we're so proud of you!

"This month I supported Martin in attending golf and man shed, both of which were chosen to help him build independence, confidence and social engagement. I always give Martin space especially in golf to enjoy the game at his own pace. Martin showed increased independence, stayed focused and expressed pride in his finished woodwork. Martin also celebrated getting a par in golf."

Training & development

At Bevriss Support, learning never stops!

Our newest team members recently completed a one-day PROACT-SCIPr-UK® Awareness Course, designed to equip staff working in our Specialist Support Services with key knowledge and practical tools for delivering safe, effective, and person-centred support.

The course covered everything from trauma-informed care and risk assessment to health & safety, recording, and post-incident debriefing.

Feedback from our learners said: "The training was interactive and informative.". "A great balance of theory and practice." "The trainer was lovely and engaging!"

Welcome to the team, and well done to all involved!

Happy Birthday Richard

Celebrating Richard's birthday in the sweetest way!

Supported by Tamar, Richard enjoyed a fantastic sensory art session all about desserts and puddings — he even created his own! The group then made a sensory birthday cake before Richard shared a real birthday cake with his friends at the Cunliffe Centre. A huge thank you to Vicky from Making Sense for running such a fun and creative session!

Active Support Model

A busy and brilliant few days for Elinor!

From helping out at home following the Active Support Model—where our team supports to do things with her not for her, to making bird feeders and juicing at outside lives, Brymbo. Elinor also won the raffle at the disco and the Easter bonnet competition! Moments full of achievement, fun and independence.

Big Smiles & Bigger Milestones

Jake enjoyed his very first holiday without family, supported by Diane and Gaye, at the beautiful Brickhouse Cottages in Blackpool. From a cosy, fully equipped stay to new adventures, Jake had a fantastic time — and he's already planning the next one! Thanks to Chill Factor's adaptive equipment and specialist instruction, they make snowsports accessible for everyone.

WORLD AUTISM ACCEPTANCE MONTH

During Autism Awareness Month, we're sharing real voices from our team to help raise understanding, break down stigma, and celebrate neurodiversity.

We spoke to Su, one of our dedicated support workers, and asked her some questions. Swipe through to read Su's answers and gain some insight into the meaningful work our team does every day.

World Autism Acceptance Month

QUESTION
What's one thing you've learned from supporting an autistic individual that's really stayed with you?

ANSWER
Sometimes quiet acceptance, just being there. By interacting on the individuals terms, even in the silence this shows your support by not rushing or expecting anything. It's not always about engaging in activities.

World Autism Acceptance Month

QUESTION
What's one common misconception about autism you'd like to correct?

ANSWER
"People with autism don't feel emotion".
When in fact they just struggle to express their emotions. Autistic people still feel anger, love, sadness, joy, and more, they express these emotions in unique ways.

World Autism Acceptance Month

QUESTION
Why is Autism Awareness Month important to you as a support worker?

ANSWER
As a Support Worker and with my brother being on the spectrum (having been diagnosed with Asperger Syndrome in Adulthood), I think it is vital that there is more awareness to make the world a better place for people with Autism to be understood.
