Welcome to Machines Dream Too, an emergent space for exploring collective imagination in collaboration with nonhuman systems, especially AI.
This is not a workshop.
This is not a project.
This is a fragment of something not-yet-formed. Together, we'll co-create, prompts, rituals, errors, and echoes.

You are not required to know what this means. You are invited to bring curiosity, weirdness, and care.

This page is intentionally left

BLANK

We Hold

A soft list of values or practices:

We work with AI, not to make products, but to make meaning We use prompts as speculative invitations, not tasks
We share authorship with others, machines, ghosts, and you,
We welcome instability, ambiguity, and failure We document fragments not conclusions, We co-imagine in the space between signal and dream

This page is intentionally

A weird colour

What Might Happen (or Not) A short list of possibilities without commitments, to give you a feel for what might unfold:

You may be invited to:

Respond to a symbolic or poetic prompt, Join a small in-person or online session, Share something incomplete or unstable, Co-author a fragment with a machine, Help shape rituals, structures, or experiments, Witness, without needing to produce.

How to Engage

This is not a timeline. It's a trail.

We'll send occasional invitations to participate. You can engage as little or as deeply as you like You may receive poems, questions, glyphs, or files. You can suggest ideas, share processes, or offer silence. Everything is opt-in, slow, and low-pressure.

We are starting with a mailing list, we will only use your email address as a communication point for Machines Dream Too. If you want us to stop including you feel free to tell us and we'll remove your data.

@machinesdreamtoo themdtoo@gmail.com

This page is an open window