Procedure Description

Permanent jewelry involves custom fitting and welding a bracelet, anklet, or necklace directly onto the client without a clasp. The jewelry can be removed only by cutting the chain.

Risks & Acknowledgment

- The procedure involves a small welding spark.
- There is minimal risk of minor burns or skin irritation.
- The jewelry may cause irritation, allergic reactions, or discomfort.
- Jewelry may snag or break and could cause injury.
- The artist is not responsible for loss, damage, or allergic reactions.
- I have disclosed any allergies or sensitivities.

Aftercare

- Clean gently with mild soap and water.
- Avoid pulling or snagging the jewelry.
- Removal requires cutting the jump ring.
- Re-welding services may incur a fee.

Disclaimer

All sales are final. Refunds are not available after the jewelry is welded. Re-welding due to breakage, resizing, or removal will be subject to a service fee.

Liability Release

I release 4ever Linked and its staff from any liability for injury, allergic reaction, or damage resulting from the permanent jewelry process. I consent to the procedure under the conditions described above.
